DOLL CONSOLES HER FOR ABSENT MOTHER

LEFT TEMPORARY GUARDIAN

Father Takes Her From Friend's House, but Must Explain Case to Judge.

Little Lillie May Block, 7 years old, has a dog, a new doll and a new dress, and for this reason she is content to remain with her father while her mother brings habeas corpus proceedings to obtain possession of her.

Five weeks ago the child's mother, Mrs. Jennie R. Block, who lives at 1507 Morgan street, gave the little girl to E. H. Holmes of 1408 South Cardinal avenue. She said that she was not able to support her, as she was taking care of two other children, and asked him to provide for her.

Holmes, who knew the Blocks before their separation, took little Lillie May in his charge. Wednesday he decided that he could keep the girl no longer, as he has children of his own. He knew that Lillie May's father would gladly care for her, as Block, in his suit for divorce, filed Jan. 17 last, asked for the custody of his children. Lillie May's father was summoned, and took his daughter to his home at 4036 Olive street.

When Mrs. Block learned that the little girl was with her father, and not with Holmes, she determined to bring her back. She has filed a crossbill to the divorce suit, which is still pending, and she was confident that the law would not allow her husband to keep Lillie May if she protested. In this she reckoned rightly. Judge McDonald Thursday afternoon issued a writ of habeas corpus ordering Block to appear in court Saturday and show cause why he should not deliver Lillie May to her mother.

Deputy Unable To Serve Papers.

Before the contest for the child commenced, a fight occurred in which Mrs. Block, a woman, a man and a dog set upon the deputy, William Friesmeier, when he attempted to serve the papers in the divorce case at Mrs. Block's home, 1601 Washington avenue.

The two women and the man attacked the deputy with fists and clothes poles in front, while the dog executed a flank movement from the rear with Friesmeier's legs as the objective point. The outcome of this chapter in the Block's career was that the officer was not able to read enough of the summons to get the case into court at that term, and it went over.

Block, in his petition for separation from his wife, alleged that she was not affectionate in her remarks to him and that on one occasion she threatened to shoot him. He also said that his wife deserted him Jan. 3, 1902.

In November, 1902, Block was arrested for wife abandonment, but after the hearing of the case he was discharged.

Besides little May, the Blocks have two other children, John, 6 years old, and George, 2 years old. These children live with their mother.

FOLK TO RUN ON HIS RECORD

Announcement of Circuit Attorney's Candidacy for Governor Will Be Made at St. Joseph.

Circuit Attorney Folk will announce himself an aspirant to the Democratic nomination for governor at St. Joseph October 24. He is to speak there on that date and the speech will be a political one.

To quote a friend of the circuit attorney, he will "express a willingness to continue the work of ferreting out corruption at Jefferson City if the people wish it."

Mr. Folk, following his custom in the matter of his political hopes, today declined to be quoted on the subject. The statement of his friend, however, is the first authoritative announcement that he will make his canvass on his record as circuit attorney and his promise to carry the banner of reform into the Capitol.

LAUGHS AT HUSBAND'S TEARS

Court Evinces Sympathy for Unhappy Man and Frees Him From Payment of Fine.

When Mrs. Kate O'Brien laughed at the tears of her husband, Thomas O'Brien, during his recital of efforts toward a reconciliation with her, Justice Kleiber, in the Wyoming street police court, stayed the fine of $10 against the husband, who, he declared, was technically guilty of disturbing his wife's peace.

Mrs. O'Brien, who is pretty, has a room at 1126 Madison street. Her 18-months-old child lives with her. O'Brien lives at 2732 Thomas street. The causes of the separation were not brought out in court. The testimony showed that O'Brien had gone to his wife's room on Sept. 13, after the failure of efforts toward a reconciliation, and had taken their daughter to a sister, in the hope of giving the child a better home. The sister refused to keep the child, and O'Brien, when he went back to his wife, censured her bitterly. Mrs. O'Brien says he cursed her.

The case was taken to Judge Kleiber's court on a change of venue from Judge Pollard.

MISS RUTH BRYAN'S WEDDING.

The Event Will Take Place at Father's Home, Oct. 3.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 25.—The marriage of Miss Ruth Bryan and W. H. Leavitt of Newport will take place Saturday evening, Oct. 3, at 7:30 o'clock at Fairview, the home of the Bryans. The Rev. Dr. Swearingen, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Bryan is a member, probably will perform the ceremony.

Replica of Great Library.

James P. Early, the sculptor who designed the decorations for the government buildings at the World's Fair, is having a model of the congressional library prepared in plaster, showing both the exterior and the interior of the building. Mr. Early will show the machinery used in handling books in the library, including the tunnels through which they are sent to and from the capitol building. Many rare books from the library will also be shown.

PLUCKY SHERIFF'S BATTLE WITH MOB

Citizens Storm Tennessee Jail and Capture Negro Prisoner.

SHOT TO DEATH IN CORRIDOR

The Sheriff Wounded One of the Mob and Captured Three.

LYNCHBURG, Tenn., Sept. 25.—Sheriff George R. Davidson, in attempting to save the life of a negro early today, fired into a mob which was storming the jail, wounding a man whose name is unknown.

The sheriff summoned assistance, but he and his aides were overpowered, the jail was entered and the negro, Allen Small, shot to death in the corridor.

The mob was composed of about 25 persons. Sheriff Davidson was alone at the time. He refused to give up the keys, and opened fire from a window. The sheriff then called for the police. Two officers and several citizens rushed to the jail, but despite their presence the mob battered down the wooden door at the foot of the stairs leading to the corridor.

The sheriff and posse made a determined resistance, but were unable to prevent the mob from breaking in the iron door at the head of the stairs and entering the cell occupied by the negro, about whose neck they placed a rope.

As soon as the men emerged from the cell it became apparent that the negro could not be taken from the jail and hanged for fear of being fired on, and he was shot to death. The mob then made an effort to escape, but the sheriff and his guard captured three of the men.

One of them, it is said, has made a confession implicating 13 men. Small was under arrest on the charge of assaulting Mrs. Eliza Eggleston, and at the preliminary hearing the warrant was amended so as to charge a simple case of assault. The negro had waived examination and was awaiting the action of the grandjury.

$25,000 HORSE FATALLY HURT

Norval King, Imprisoned in a Burning Car, Was So Badly Injured He Will Die.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Sept. 25.—With smoke and fire pouring from its windows, a palace stock car filled with race horses and attached to a Union Pacific through freight, pulled into the yards here today.

The fire was quickly extinguished, but not before the trotting stallion, Norval King, valued at $25,000, was fatally burned and several other horses injured.

The horses were being shipped from the Nebraska State Fair, were Norval King, who had taken a number of prizes, to the home of the owner, L. C. Kinney of Buhanell, Neb. Four of the worst injured were taken from the car and placed under medical care here. The others continued the journey in a new car.

The fire is supposed to have originated from sparks from the engine entering the car windows and igniting the straw.

ADJOURNED TO AVOID A ROW

PRESIDENT FEARED A FIGHT

Disputes Arose Over the Seating of a Delegate of the Buchanan Faction.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 25.—President Buchanan shortly before noon today adjourned the annual convention of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers without date, to prevent what promised to be a serious fight and probably a split over the seating of Daniel Brophy, a Buchanan supporter, who held a credential from a Scranton (Pa.) local.

The session was held behind closed doors. Later it was stated that Joseph A. Mullaney, a Parks adherent, had declared that the credential held by Brophy had been forged.

A fight had been made on Brophy yesterday by the Parks crowd, and although he was seated, President Buchanan ruled to prevent endless debate, that anyone wishing to make protest against any of the delegates might do so in writing.

Such a protest against Brophy, declaring him to be a "scab," was presented just before adjournment last evening and became the first business of the convention this morning.

A threatening move was made at the door of the hall as Brophy sought entrance to the convention today. He made as if to draw his revolver, it is stated, and declared he would shoot the first man to interfere. Soon after the doors had been closed and the protest against the seating of Brophy had been brought up, a member of the Parks delegation made the declaration that the credential held by Brophy from Scranton had been forged, and that it originally bore the name of "J. Reed," which had been erased.

Instantly, there was an uproar and heated words were heard on all sides, charges and counter-charges of fraud being made on all sides. When the scene became threatening and it seemed impossible to get the convention out of its tangle, President Buchanan summarily declared the gathering adjourned without hour.

After the delegates had filed out into the street, Delegate Parks and his followers held a conference on the sidewalk.

"Our men," declared Mr. Parks, with Brophy and if the convention insists upon this it will not sit in a convention with seating him we will return to New York."

Delegate Brophy's home is in Montreal.

CHIEF WANTS AUTO HOSE CART

After Seeing One Do Remarkable Exhibition Work, Mr. Swingley Is Ambitious.

So favorably was Fire Chief Swingley impressed with an automobile hose carriage exhibited at the recent convention of fire chiefs at Atlantic City, N. J., that he will recommend the purchase of one for his department.

There is none yet in service, the model exhibited at Atlantic City being the first one manufactured. Its cost is $5,000. It has a small chemical engine attached. Chief Swingley said that it made a run of one mile and turned on a stream from its chemical engine in three minutes.

JUDGES TO NAME 600 NEW JURORS

General Personnel of Grandjuries for Next Four Years Will Be Determined.

DEMOCRATIC CHARGES DENIED

Allegations of Politics in Selection of Juries Are Branded as Untrue by a Democratic Circuit Jurist.

The eleven judges of the St. Louis circuit court, three of whom are Republicans and eight Democrats, will meet in general term Monday to make up a list of six hundred names from which the St. Louis grandjurors of the next four years, unless changes are deemed advisable meantime, will be selected.

It has been stated by Mr. Hawes and other political leaders that 90 per cent of those on the present grandjury roster are Republicans, and that in some instances the grandjury has not contained a Democratic member.

This, the Democratic leaders say, has tended to make the grandjury at times unconsciously biased.

At the jury commissioner's office no record is kept of the political faith of any person eligible for jury service, and no one in official authority will venture to confirm the assertions of the Jefferson Club president.

One of the Democratic circuit judges discredits this representation, although he says it may be true there are not so many Democrats as Republicans on the present list.

The available grandjurors are selected from the general jury list, which now contains 45,000 names. Each judge presents about 100 names, and when the total number exceeds 600, the judges sitting as a body bring the roster within the limit which is fixed by statute.

Thus in four years 240 men, or not quite one-halfofthe entire roster, would have served.

The method of selection is so arranged that no person will sit twice on a grandjury during these four years.

When the grandjury is called the judges in general term are notified.

The presiding judge designates two of his colleagues who wait on the jury commissioner to inform him of the court's order. The commissioner thereupon places every name on a slip and all are thrown into a wheel which is revolved several times. Then the commissioner picks out the slips, one at a time, and the two judges made memoranda of the names, there generally being a venire of 40 chosen at one time.

Of this 40 the judge having charge of the jury selects twelve men and appoints the foreman. The names of those who do not serve are replaced in the box.

CONSTABLES RAID WEST END CLUB

Deputy sheriffs descended on the West End Club at 1 o'clock this afternoon, and levied upon the furnishings of the now famous boxing establishment of Charles "Hardluck" Haughton.

Everything of a movable nature was removed by the deputies and carted away in wagons under a writ of replevin—the ring appurtenances, boxing gloves, billiard tables, once the scene of numerous "crap" games, and other appurtenances of the place.

President Haughton was not in the city to prevent the attachment of his property. He has been in Hot Springs since the fight between Attell and Regan a few weeks ago.

Following the fight the authorities informed Haughton that further bouts in his establishment would not be tolerated on accoun of the poor exit facilities in case of fine or panic.

It is believed thatthe game is permanently closed here and that those holding judgments against the West End Club have taken this method of satisfying them.

WARM, THEN COOLER; NEXT?

Persons With Colds Will Have Hard Weather Promised.

Persons with colds will find it hard to get rid of them, and those without them will find the supply ample in St. Louis. The warm-then-cold weather is to linger for a while.

The temperature was only 53 in St. Louis at 6 o'clock, but by night it will be much warmer. Saturday there will be another change, and considerably cooler weather is promised.

The official prediction is: "Fair Friday night and Saturday. Warmer tonight; cooler Saturday."

Minnesota and North Dakota have been granted temporary relief from the frigid weather they have been having. It is considerably warmer in those states and in Montana there have been slight showers and warmer weather.

The central valley "high" has drifted east to the Ohio valley and caused a drop in the temperature, with slight frosts in Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia and western Pennsylvania.

GRAVESEND RESULTS.

First race—Mamie Worth first, Ingold second, Young Henry third.

Second race—High Chancellor first, Monogram second, Sir Voohels third.

DOGCATCHERS' ATTACK ANGERS NEIGHBORHOOD

Woman Who Was Victim of Onslaught With Wire Trap Will Apply for Warrant as Soon as She Is Able to Leave Home.

Residents in the neighborhood of 1127 Chambers street are highly incensed at the onslaught of dog catchers in which Mrs. V. P. Isley, 12 years old, who lives at that number, was knocked down and her hand badly injured.

Mrs. Isley was unable to go before Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Dalton Friday morning to secure a warrant for her assailants. She says she can identify the man who struck her over the head and hand with the wire loop used in catching dogs.

As soon as she is able she will do so. Meantime James O'Connor, who represents his brother, Joseph O'Connor, keeper of the dog pound at the foot of Gasconade street, says he will not discharge the men until the charges against them are proven.

Wednesday, Mrs. Isley says, she and her daughter, Mrs. Lucille Delano, were at the door of their house, when their dog Tramp ran past them into the street. They and Mrs. Isley's 12-year-old niece ran after it.

As they reached the street the three dog catchers started after the dog also, reaching it just as Mrs. Isley bent to pick it up.

One of the men, according to Mrs. Isley, made a motion as though to slap Mrs. Delano, and she ran; but Mrs. Isley persisted in her efforts to secure the dog, and one of the men began to beat her with the wire.

First, she says, he struck her a severe blow over the head, and as she was falling from this blow he again struck her over the hand. She fell and the dog catchers, with coarse remarks, threw "Tramp" into their wagon and drove away.

Injuries Cause Severe Pain.

Mrs. Isley is slight and frail. She is a cousin of Judge Thomas B. Crews, and of Mrs. Dr. W. G. Moore of Vandeventer place. She is a member of an old Franklin County family.

"Tramp" was redeemed from the pound by members of the family a few hours after he had been placed in the pen, and a license was purchased for him.

One of the callers upon Mrs. Isley after the publication in the Post-Dispatch of the story of the assault was a Mr. Emory of 1208 North Sixth street, who offered her any assistance he could give. Mr. Emory says he was assaulted and a pet dog taken out of his arms by the dog catchers a few weeks ago. His dog, he says, had a license.

CHIEF DOG CATCHER WILL NOT DISCHARGE HIS AIDES.

Joseph O'Connor, who was appointed pound keeper, leaves the active management and control of the men employed to his brother.

his brother, James O'Connor, who said:

"If Mrs. Isley was attacked as she represents, I will immediately discharge the entire crew on that wagon, Harry Grout, John Skimm and Paul Paymo. All of the men accused have been employed at the dog pound long enough to know their duties. They can have no possible excuse if they struck Mrs. Isley, as they know that brutality to either persons or dogs is not tolerated.

"I am sorry that Mrs. Isley did not complain to me before she presented the matter to the warrant officer," said Mr. O'Connor, "so that I could have made an investigation. I had heard nothing of it until it appeared in print.

"There is a prejudice against the men. I always give my men the benefit of the doubt. I never allow my feeling for them to amount to prejudice, however.

"In this case, if Mr. Dalton issues the warrant and service is secured before I have an opportunity to investigate, I shall give bond for the men and then investigate.

"If that investigation convinces me that they have done nothing wrong, I will assist them with their defense. If the evidence is against them, they will have to make their own case in court. I will not suspend the men simply because a warrant is issued.

"Complains are frequently lodged against the men. I investigate every one. I go to the place where the alleged misconduct occurred and try to get the complaining person to go with me to see the witnesses.

"I never withhold the names of dog catchers from persons having a right to know them. When the police called up Wednesday and asked me the names of the crew I told them and then asked if there had been any trouble. I was told that there had not been, but a woman wanted to know who got her dog.

"When the men came in I asked if they had been in trouble. They said not. One of the men said that a woman caught him by the shirtsleeve and tore the sleeve out."

WOMAN BARRISTER FREES HUSBAND

Agreement to Return to Singing Society and Pay Up Dues Ends a Suit.

Mrs. Josef Kanuch appeared before Justice Charles Bilhartz Friday morning as the chief counsel, the leading witness, the court interpreter, and finally the arbiter of a case in which her husband was defendant.

Mrs. Kanuch played her various roles successfully, and at the conclusion of the trial the justice warmly congratulated her.

It appears that Kanuch belonged to a Slavonic musical society, from which he was expelled for failure to pay his dues. When he left the organization he took with him a fine cornet.

This cornet proved the cause of his legal troubles. Suit to recover the musical instrument was instituted by the society, whose officers were present at today's court proceedings.

Mrs. Kanuch informed the court that she knew all the facts bearing on the controversy; that she was there to represent her husband, and if the court pleased, to act as interpreter of all the witnesses.

This arrangement was satisfactory to both sides, and after Mrs. Kanuch had concluded her explanation of the case and the examination of the witnesses, Judge Bilhartz expressed some doubt as to the merits of the points at stake.

"Why not let my husband keep the cornet if he pays his dues and goes back to the society," suggested Mrs. Kanuch.

The defendant agreed to do this and, the plaintiff accepting his word, the case was dismissed.

OH, JOY! WOMEN CAN HAVE POCKETS

Dressmakers Will So Decree and Husbands Need Not Stretch With Wives' Paraphernalia.

Pockets and plackets were up for discussion before the dressmakers' convention Friday morning at its closing session.

A petition to the dressmakers from a "pocketless woman" started the discussion. It was agreed that the association would bend all efforts to give the women of St. Louis and vicinity pockets.

The pathetic plea which brought about the action read as follows:

"Please, dressmakers, decree us a pocket. We have had none of our own for so long and are tired of putting our hands in our husbands' pockets and they want the change as much as we do.

"Our handkerchief has been homeless so long and our purse has been a wanderer upon the face of the earth when not chained to our waist or handcuffed to our wrist.

"We are aweary of looking after our small belongings.

"And while you are about to give us a skirt placket is a front seam where we can give it our personal attention and keep a watchful eye upon its tendency to yawn ill-manneredly in the face of a critical public."

A POCKETLESS WOMAN.

Its trimming was of black machine embroidery, made buttons and folds.

Monthly meetings of the dressmakers will be held throughout the year.

MORGAN STOCKS' SLUMP DEPRESSES BIG FINANCIERS

Wall Street Is Puzzled by Selling of Steel Trust and Other Securities, Which Seem to Be Beyond Great Promoter's Control.

LIQUIDATION BY RICH MEN SAID TO BE RESPONSIBLE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Wall street is in such depression that the continued slump in Morgan stocks—specially Steel—is arousing a great curiosity at the least.

Mr. Steel, who is one of Mr. Morgan's partners, said a few days ago that he doubted if a gold dollar would bring 99 cents if offered on the stock exchange.

The selling of Morgan stocks puzzles Wall street. It is said that Mr. Morgan himself is as much amazed at the weakness of steel as is the public.

Many of his clerks are said to have bought Steel common at 25, believing it was a splendid investment.

Several official assurances have come from the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. that the directors of the corporation see no reason for passing the dividend on the common stock, because it is being earned.

It is positively stated that the next dividend is to be paid.

One explanation of the selling of the Morgan stocks is that many of the subscribers have decided to retire from the bond conversion syndicate on Oct. 1, and not to participate in the extension which J. P. Morgan & Co., the syndicate managers, have offered.

If a majority of the syndicate should retire, payments aggregating about $15,000,000 will have to be made, and the syndicate managers will require a large sum in cash to meet their obligations.

The heavy declines are not due to heavish manipulation. They are caused solely by liquidation, and that liquidation from the rich men.

It comes from rich men all over the country, but principally from Pittsburg, where fortunes—largely fictitious—have been built up in recent years, through speculation.

Several New York millionaires, who have been lavish in their expenditures at summer resorts in recent years, have been forced to sell Consolidated Gas in large quantities in order to protect some of their weaker stocks.

50,000 Shares Sold to Pay the Margins.

One commission house closed out a block of 50,000 shares of miscellaneous securities which the president of a rolling mill in the Pittsburg district has been carrying for two years, and remargining, from time to time, as the market declined.

He had been unable to respond to the call for margins, and his brokers were forced to sell him out.

This is only one of many such cases that have occurred recently.

The situation has been described as a rich man's panic.

The public has been out of the market for months, and, therefore, recent declines in Wall street have caused little inconvenience to the so-called outside element.

Men who have become enormously wealthy through the floatation of over-capitalized enterprises have found themselves deprived suddenly of a great proportion of their wealth.

Many of these fortunes were always to a great extent on paper.

The lights burned in the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. until after 7 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Behind the drawn curtains, silhouettes, which strikingly resembled the outlines of the great banker and his partners, could be seen. A conference of great importance was evidently going on; the brokers, who are always ready to frame ingenious conjectures, saw something ominous in it.

It is seldom that Mr. Morgan stays at his office later than 5 o'clock.

He sometimes remains until 6, when he has important business, but only five times in recent years has he stayed at his office as late as he remained Wednesday.

Harriman's Visit to Morgan Is Significant.

Wall street notes the fact that the great conference at the banking house Wednesday was followed yesterday by a drop of several points in the Morgan securities.

It has since transpired that E. H. Harriman was at the conference on Wednesday night, but Wall street is puzzled to know why this should have any effect on the Morgan securities.

The intimation is given out very strongly that Mr. Harriman is to become a director of the Erie Railway and that a harmony agreement between the Union Pacific and the Northern Securities Co. is to be patched up. But this does not explain the selling of the Morgan stocks yesterday. It would ordinarily be regarded as a bull point, but bull points are overlooked in Wall street nowadays.

It is a long time since E. H. Harriman visited Mr. Morgan's office and Wall street was inclined to make much of it.

Wall street believes there is going to be a getting together for mutual protection of a good many prominent financiers who have been fighting each other either openly or covertly for several years.

There is no question in the mind of Wall street that some of the Standard Oil men who are allied with the National City Bank and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. have

CORNICE SHELTERS DETECTIVES' PREY

Three Women Found Lying in Galvanized Iron Trench, Forty Feet Above Street.

DUST-COVERED AND CHOKED

Cough Reveals Whereabouts as the Searchers Were About to Abandon Their Pursuit.

Like a page from "The Mysteries of Paris" was the adventure of Detectives McKenna, Hageman and Mahon, who hunted the roofs of houses an hour Thursday night for three women charged with robbery, whom they found at last hidden in a cornice that jutted over the street 40 feet below. A cough revealed them.

Thursday night while the detectives were watching the house in which the women lived, 911 Chestnut street, saw four men enter. After waiting 20 minutes the detectives followed and made their way to the third floor.

There they found the men, but the women had decamped. The men told the detectives that their companions had become alarmed and fled.

For a half hour the detectives searched the house, looking into every cranny, but did not find the women. As they were about to depart Detective Mahon noticed an open window on the staircase. He looked out and saw a roof 15 feet below. Calling the other officers to follow he leaped into the darkness. The sidewalk was 40 feet below. The women could not be found.

Here was mystery enough. If the women had jumped to the street it would have been a matter for the ambulance rather than the patrol wagon, and the officers were sure they had not done so. But they were completely baffled.

Again they were about to depart when one of them heard a muffled cough. They returned to the search. Once more they were about to give up. Once more the cough.

"I have it!" whispered McKenna, tiptoeing to the edge of the roof. Bending down he listened intently. Then he felt along the boards at the back of the cornice. One was loose. He ripped it off. Lighting a match he looked inside.

Lying in the hollow galvanized iron cornice lay the three women side by side. They were covered with dust and almost choked by it.

The detectives ordered them out and then took them to the Four Courts.

Artists at a Concert.

The Hialoi Singing Society will give a concert at Sokol Hall, Allen and Ninth streets, on the evening of September 27, at which it will introduce several celebrated musicians. The leading attraction of the evening will be Frank Hladky, the leading violinist of the Thomas Symphony Orchestra of Chicago. Mr. Hladky went to Chicago during the Columbian Exposition as concert master of the Hans von Boulow orchestra, and remained as violin virtuoso with Theodore Thomas. Other performers from Chicago will be Dr. J. D. Novak, tenor and pianist, and Fred Novak, baritone.

PHILIPPINE CAMP BARS VISITORS; YOUNGER MEMBERS WILL STAY HERE

Brown Men Make Friends With Jefferson Guards Who Served in Insular Army.

Although the cool wind makes them shiver even when standing in the warm sunlight, the Filipinos encamped on a hill at the World's Fair like St. Louis, and those who have no families at home say they will stay after the Fair and learn American ways.

While half of their number carried lumber and tugged at the ropes used in raising the framework of their exhibit building, the other half did duty at the mess. They crowded the mess tent, busy with preparations for the next meal, chattering spiritedly and stopping work once in a while long enough to remove their cigarettes from their lips and munch an ear of corn.

Braulio Barbaza, a short, fat man, who talks very pure Spanish, but no English, although he has visited America before with his wife and daughters, is in charge of the mess. He stood in front of the tent while the others prepared the meal and watched the work on the World's Fair buildings in the distance.

"How do we like Americans in the Philippines?" said he, through Joseph Schwartz, World's Fair interpreter and guide. "Very much. They are very progressive. Do things well.

"We don't know much about Americans in America yet. We have come to see and learn. So far the country is very fine. It is so big. The men wondered that it took so long to come from San Francisco.

"Manila is a fine big city, great buildings, electric lights, street cars and many things that the Americans have. We are not negritos there. We wear clothes and live in houses as you do in America. Many of us are wealthy.

"We drove the negritos into the mountains. They are not civilized.

"We do things in Manila the same as you do here," interrupted Tomaso Sapnit, a 19-year-old Filipino, speaking in a gentle voice at times little more than a whisper. "Just the same methods in electricity."

"Sapnit is an electrician," explained Barbaza. "Supervisor of electricity in Manila. He will do electrical work in the Philippine buildings at the Fair."

"I expect to stay after the Fair and study electricity in the United States," said Sapnit. "I went to school in Manila, studied electricity and a little English. I want to learn both very good."

"Are there any others who want to stay?"

"Yes, all the young ones who have no families. The old men want to go back home where their children are. There are seven or eight of us who would like to study in St. Louis after the Fair.'

Barbaza is a taxidermist and has with him a collection of stuffed Philippine birds which he shows as samples of his work.

Many of the Jefferson Guards who served in the army in the Philippines and talk a little Spanish, have made friends with the Filipinos. The latter laughed and gesticulated as the guards recalled familiar places in Manila and the islands.

A guard is posted about the Philippine quarters to keep visitors away. Their grounds are outside the Exposition fence and it is feared that their work will be interfered with unless visitors are kept at a distance. By the Exposition authorities they are regarded as workmen and not as an exhibit.

"BURGLAR PROOF" COFFIN FOR HIM

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 25.—Bronson B. Tuttle, a wealthy retired iron master who lived all his life in Naugatuck, Conn., was buried there on Tuesday in a steel casket that is not only said to be "burglar proof" but so constructed that it cannot be opened without the use of dynamite. A man in a tent close to the grave keeps vigil night and day.

So far as those who knew Mr. Tuttle intimately in life knew he was not afraid of ghosts, nor is any reason known why the family should fear that the grave might be opened. The opinion generally is, however, that the family fears that some one might trouble the dead in hope of obtaining a reward for the return of the body. Mr. Tuttle was 76 years old when he died of a paralytic stroke. He was the pioneer iron man in the Naugatuck region and had amassed a considerable fortune when he retired a few years ago.

The coffin was of the conventional pattern and costly. It was placed in a steel vault or box weighing 600 pounds and so constructed that no screws, bolts or rivets are on the outside.

The lid is held down by twelve automatic bars and springs on the inside, of such construction that when the lid was pressed down the whole box became hermetically sealed. It cannot be opened with drills or tools unless some powerful explosive be introduced through drilled holes.

To saw off the automatic locking devices one who knows their location would need to work several days, it is said. The slight line of juncture, between the sides and the lid is obliterated by the use of steel cement carefully applied.

The grave was covered over several feet with costly floral emblems, and is to guard these from thieves that the man sleeps in the tent at night, according to a statement made tonight by an undertaker. The guardian has been sworn in as a special police officer.

CHILD WRECKED BY MURDER CASE

Little Adelaide Knobel Says Statement Condemning Her Brother Was Forced From Her Lips.

"I DON'T KNOW WHY I SAID IT"

She Tells Pitiful Story of the Fateful Lawn Party at Which a Guest Met His Death.

"My teeth rattled, my head wouldn't stay still and even the chair I was sitting on shook. I couldn't talk a word. The judge said that I could go down from the witness stand. Afterwards I fainted."

This is the story of little Adelaide Knobel of 1555 South Third street, the main witness in the case against her brother, George Knobel, who is held for the grandjury on a charge of murder in the second degree. He is accused of shooting Mathew Langendorf of 2208 Cherokee street.

Langendorf was shot at a lawn party Saturday evening, Aug. 15. Adelaide and her two brothers, George and Joseph, were guests at the party.

Adelaide is only 16. The brother to whom her testimony meant so much is 22. She is slight for her age and appears to be but a child. She has a small face and gray eyes about which are lines of sadness.

She was a happy little girl before the occurance. Since then her nervous system seems to have been wrecked. She cries much and faints often. When in a faint her hands close tight together and no force is strong enough to separate them.

Her account of the party that brought so much sorrow into her life is as follows:

"It was late and I was sitting in the garden singing. The other folks were listening.

"I had just gotten to the chorus of my song, when I heard a noise, made by persons quarreling. I felt that there was trouble. I left my seat and ran to the pavement.

"The boys were having a dispute. I was very frightened. While the folks were trying to take care of me a shot was fired. When I became conscious they were carrying Mathew Langendorf into the house.

"That was the last of the party. He was hurt, but he was still alive. My brothers and I came home. We went to sleep, but before morning came the police came for us.

"They took all of us to the station. They didn't hardly wait for me to dress.

"I stayed there most of Sunday. They asked me so many questions. I started to tell them what Mathew had said when they carried him in and they thought I was telling them that my brother had shot Mathew.

"Three of them asked me at once if George had done it and I said 'Yes.' I don't know why I said it. I didn't mean to hurt George.

Officers Made Child Excited.

"They talked to me so much that I didn't know what I was saying. George never told me that he had shot Mathew, but I said that he did. Mathew died on Monday.

"When I went before the coroner I said the same thing. I thought I must. When I was told what harm I had done to my brother I felt worse.

"But the worst of all was the trial Wednesday night. I knew then what I had told the coroner. I knew that I was under oath. If I said one way I would be making trouble for George. If I said another I didn't know what would happen to me.

"I couldn't think. I couldn't talk. I cried so much that the judge felt sorry for me. I had never been in court before and I didn't know the ways. At last the judge said that I didn't need to stay there any longer.

"I was glad because he didn't make me talk. Then I saw them take George back to jail again and I guess I fainted."

George Knobel was placed under $5000 bond. His sister's testimony before the coroner was the most weighty given and although she was excused from testifying by Judge Moore in the court of criminal correction Wednesday night her brother was held for the grandjury on the testimony that she had given at the inquest.

FR. COFFEY TO METHODISTS.

Priest's Address One of the Features of St. Louis Conference.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FARMINGTON, Mo., Sept. 25.—Father J. C. Coffey created somewhat of a stir by coming here and addressing the St. Louis Methodist conference.

Rev. J. Stephan, who presided at the session, is responsile for Father Coffey's visit. The subject of the address was "The Liquor Traffic and the Churches."

The priest scored the police force in St. Louis, the excise commissioner and the governor. He pleaded for unity of all denominations in striking the liquor traffic. He denounced clergymen who were afraid to oppose it, as hirelings.

After the address nearly every one in the big audience shook Father Coffey's hand.

Last night the conference celebrated the bicentennial of John Wesley's birth. Bishop Galloway and Rev. J. C. Morris spoke.

This morning the following probationers were received into the full fellowship of the ministry:

R. E. Atkinson, J. R. Buillington, C. L. Dennis, A. E. Carson, J. W. Ham, W. E. Forsythe, W. E. Judy, J. E. Martin, L. B. McCaslin, S. A. Peeples, O. S. J. Baldridge, A. Mathes, A. E. Robinson, J. S. Tilley, J. D. Tussey and S. J. Upton.

This afternoon the Business Men's Club took the delegates on a drive through the city and to the State Hospital No. 4.

J. S. Tilley will be changed from Cabanne church.

CHARGES STUDENT WITH THEFT

Grocer Says He Laid a $5 Bill on the Counter and the Young Man Tried to Buy Lard With It.

Metcher Vaughn, a grocer at Twenty-ninth and Pine streets, swore to a warrant Friday morning charging Earl Mallory, a student at Washington University, who is living at 2919 Lawton avenue, with petit larceny.

Vaughn declares that as he was preparing to leave his store yesterday afternoon to change a $5 bill Mallory entered and requested a bucket of lard. Vaughn says he laid the $5 bill down on the counter and took down two buckets of lard from the shelf. He says that Mallory selected one of the buckets and offered a $5 bill in payment.

Vaughn declares that his wife, who was standing behind the counter, informed him that his note was the same he had placed on the counter. He says that he so informed Mallory, who, he says, became indignant and left the store. Vaughn followed the young man to Olive street, where he had him arrested.

FORTY YEARS IN PRISON.

GREENVILLE, Ill., Sept. 25.—The jury this morning, after being out all night, returned a verdict of guilty and gave Charles Ethridge 40 years in the penitentiary for the killing of John Kesner at Pocahontas about a year ago.

LONDON MAILS DELAYED.

Dispute Between the Railway and Postal Authorities.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—General indignation has been aroused here by a dispute between the postoffice authorities and the management of the London & Northwestern Railroad over the payment for the transportation of mails, by which the American mails have been seriously delayed at Liverpool, when, under exceptional circumstances, they have not been landed at Queenstown.

It appears that the railroad disputes its liability to carry to London a larger portion of the Atlantic mail than can be stowed away in an ordinary boat train, without extra payment. The recent arrival of the Cymbria's mail brought matters to a head. The railroad officials refusing to forward the surplus mails unless the postoffice agreed to pay the cost. Confronted unexpectedly with this ultimatum the postoffice complied under protest. On the arrival of the Etruria Sept. 19 the railroad took up a similar stand but on this occasion the postal authorities stubbornly declined to comply with the conditions. Consequently, hundreds of mail bags brought by the Etruria were left at Liverpool and were forwarded to Liverpool in small numbers as the accommodations of the postal cars of the ordinary trains permitted the last portion of the Etruria's mails not leaving Liverpool until Monday.

DEFRAUDING BANKS IS EASY FOR HIM

J. Holbrook Estill, Son of Wealthy Editor, Accused of Working Shrewd Game.

FOUND ILLINOIS RICH FIELD

Special to the Post-Dispatch

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 25.—The police authorities of every city and town of importance in the United States have been asked by the Pinkertons to keep a lookout for J. Holbrook Estill, eldest son of J. P. Estill of Savannah, Ga., owner of the Savannah Morning News.

Young Estill is accused of defrauding banks in various sections of the West and the Illinois State Bankers' Association has offered a reward for his arrest. Estill is alleged to have sailed under many aliases and been very successful up to this time in obtaining cash and keeping out of jail.

When young "Holly" Estill was born his father was not wealthy, but since the son has grown up the older man has developed into a large real estate and newspaper owner in Savannah. He is almost a millionaire and, last year, was a candidate for governor of Georgia.

While still in the employ of the Savannah Morning News, "Holly" Estill married contrary to his father's wishes, but the colonel retained him in his employ. Soon the younger Estill became tired of the restraint of his father's office and sought other fields.

He went away from Savannah for a time, taking his wife with him. Soon they returned. The life of a married man did not agree with "Holly." There were too many responsibilities. After a few years he went away and left his wife and two small children to his father's bounty. Soon afterward a third child was born.

It is alleged that soon after reaching this city young Estill began to defraud the unwary in many different ways. He adopted many aliases. He was known as J. Holbrook Estill, L. Estill, H. T. Eberstin, C. A. Lee, Henry T. Elliott, H. J. Estill, Geo. A. Haight, H. Estill, A. C. Franklin, C. A. Shearson, C. P. Armstrong, J. V. Carson, S. D. Sheffield, R. P. Lambert, R. S. Hammang and other names.

A circular sent out by the Pinkertons says he has defrauded hotels throughout the United States during the past year by persuading hotel proprietors to cash or indorse worthless checks or drafts after he had remained at the hotel for a short time. His favorite amount is said to be $150.

Guarded Worthless Checks From Raising.

After losing his place in his father's newspaper office at Savannah he went upon the road as the traveling representative of the Foreman-Bassett-Hatch Lithograph Co. of Cleveland, O., and later of the Pioneer Press Co. of St. Paul, Minn. He also represented other printing concerns.

In his stock there were a great many blank drafts and other forms of printing commonly used by large houses. These were given to him as samples. He is said to have filled them out with various names and obtained cash from unsuspecting hotel managers and others.

As he represented for a time a house that sold an improved check protector it is said that he always used this device ostensibly to keep those to whom he gave his checks from increasing the amount for which they were drawn.

Gambling on the races is said to be one cause of young Estill's swindling enterprise.

CHURCH'S WAR ON LIQUOR.

Father Coffey Says Clergy Should Not Fear Name of Cranks.

An address by Father J. T. Coffey of St. John's Catholic Church was a feature of the conference of the Southern Methodist Church at Farmington, Mo. Father Coffey discussed "Liquor and the Church," and expressed the hope that it might soon be no unusual thing for Catholic priests and Methodist clergymen to discuss matters of importance to all Christians from common pulpits.

Father Coffey declared that Christian people were in the habit of shirking the fight against liquor. He declared that they were diligent in denunciation of lynching, boodling and similar crimes, but that hundreds of clergymen, fearful of being called cranks, kept clear of discussing the evils of the liquor traffic. He declared that the Catholic Church was opposed to saloons.

Earlier Departure.

On and after Sept. 27 the Illinois Central fast Chicago train, Daylight Special, will leave St. Louis Union Station at 11:45 a. m., instead of 12:25 p. m., as heretofore. The popular Chicago night train, the Diamond Special, will continue to leave as heretofore, 9:10 p. m.

LINCOLN'S BED-FELLOW DEAD.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GALESBURG, Ill., Sept. 25.—Daniel Green Burner, a boyhood friend of Abraham Lincoln, died to-day in his 90th year.

Burner's father came from Kentucky to New Salem in 1828 and lived there until 1834, when the family came to Knox County.

Mr. Burner's relations with Lincoln were intimate. For four years Lincoln boarded at the Burner home, and, part of the time, Burner and Lincoln "bunked" together. He was fond of recalling Lincoln's studious habits and his reading by the light of a tallow candle, and was familiar with the various incidents of Lincoln's life in New Salem.

CUSTOM HOUSE AT THE FAIR.

Foreign Exhibitors Will Be Aided in Every Possible Way.

Robert B. Armstrong, assistant secretary of the United States treasury, has returned to Washington after discussing plans with World's Fair officials for a branch custom house at the Fair grounds where 500 extra customs officials will be on duty to expedite the handling of the foreign exhibits.

The office will be opened early next year in the government building and all possible will be done to free foreign exhibitors from delays and vexations.

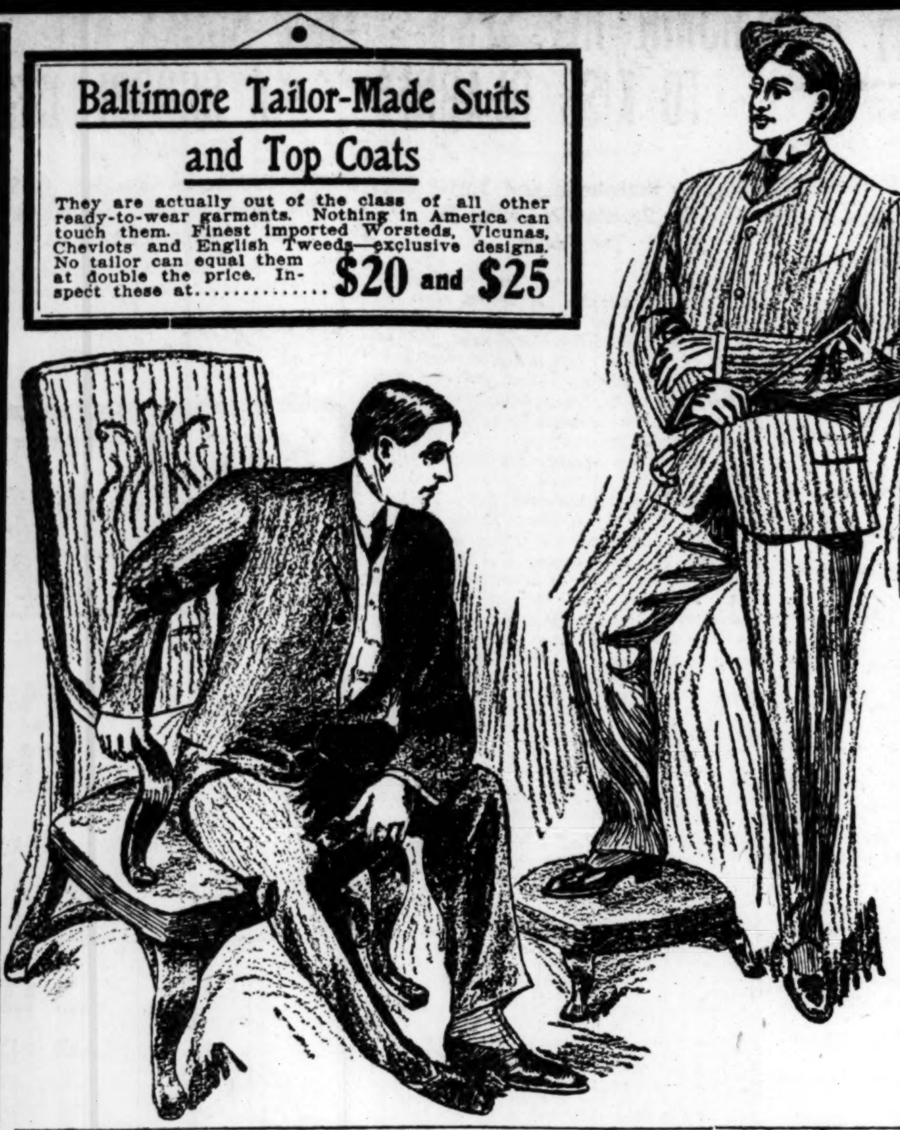

While in St. Louis Mr. Armstrong conferred with bankers and visited the Fair grounds. In the evening he was given a reception at the Missouri Athletic Club, leaving immediately after for Indianapolis and Cincinnati.

Safeguard for Skyscrapers.

Fireproof elevator cages attracted the admiration of Fire Chief Swingley while he was attending the convention of fire chiefs at Atlantic City, and he has returned with a strong desire to see them installed in some of the tall office buildings in St. Louis. The cages surround the elevator shaft, and are provided with shutters which can be drawn down in case of fire, permitting the elevators to run and carry inmates of the building to safety while the fire is burning.

Weak Heart Nervous Prostration

Mrs. Dana Amasa Rose of New York City Suffered With a Weak Heart Which Lead to Nervous Prostration, She Was All Run Down, But After Taking Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey For a Month, She Was Well and Strong.

DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY

IS A TONIC STIMULANT, BUILDS UP THE NERVE TISSUES AND GIVES STRENGTH AND VIGOR TO THE BODY.

"I was suffering from a weak heart and was all run down. I was on the verge of nervous prostration from nursing my husband during his illness.

"The doctors did not seem to help me, and I was getting worse daily. My husband was taking Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for catarrh and other complications, and it helped him very much. I commenced taking a tablespoonful in half a glass of milk every morning and night. From the first dose I felt better, and in a month I was well and strong. This was a year and a half ago. I have taken small doses occasionally, as has my husband, and it keeps us healthy and strong. We cannot say too much in praise of your valuable medicine.

"I am now in perfect health, and happy to know that my husband and myself have been cured of our many ills by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey."—Mrs. Dana Amasa Rose, 74 West Eighty-fifth st., N. Y. City.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey cures coughs, colds, consumption, grip, bronchitis, pneumonia, catarrh, asthma, malaria and all low fevers. It stimulates and enriches the blood, aids digestion, builds up the nerve tissue, tones up the heart and fortifies the system against disease germs. It prolongs life, keeps the old young and the young strong. It contains no fusel oil and is the only whiskey recognized by the government as a medicine. This is a guarantee. Seven thousand doctors prescribe and 2000 hospitals use Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey exclusively. It has saved the lives of millions of people during the past fifty years who have used it as their only medicine.

CAUTION.—When you ask for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. Unscrupulous dealers, mindful of the excellence of this preparation, will try to sell you cheap imitations, and so-called Malt Whiskey substitutes, which are put on the market for profit only, and which, far from relieving the sick, are positively harmful. Demand "Duffy's," and be sure you get it. It is the only absolutely pure malt whiskey which contains medicinal, health-giving qualities. Look for the trade-mark, "The Old Chemist," on the label. Beware of refilled bottles, and see that the seal over the cork is unbroken. The genuine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold by all druggists and grocers, or direct, $1 a bottle. Never sold in flasks or in bulk. Medical booklet free for the asking. Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

"How fine my shoes look after six months' continuous wear—

JUST BECAUSE I USED

SHINOLA

the Modern Paste Shoe Polish."

A well-appearing woman, man or child must wear a well-polished shoe. SHINOLA makes shoe polishing a pleasure, rather than a burden. It is quickly and easily applied with the Shinola dauber and polisher, shines instantly, makes leather waterproof, and one shine lasts a week. One box does it all. No liquids are used, and there is consequently no soiling of the hands.

The acids or alkali used in most shoe polishes cause a speedy destruction of the leather, and cracks, chips and scales off. SHINOLA contains neither acid nor alkali—it preserves the leather, keeps the shoes looking new, and gives them a black, permanent gloss.

A SHINOLA SHINE is a BLACK BLACK in color and this fact distinguishes it from all other polishes. Discriminating people know too well the unsatisfactory results obtained from the use of other polishes which give a faded black, gray or brownish tint to the shoes.

Accept no substitute. Your dealer has it. Or we will send it by mail postpaid. Large box 10c.

WHITE DOVE CURE [illegible]

SUNKEN TREASURE VESSEL IS FOUND

Ship That Was Lost in 1835 Is Laden With Mexican Silver Ore.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 25.—Rumors of the finding of a treasure ship off Miami were confirmed today when Capt. Jennings and three of the crew of the wrecking schooner Osceo filed a libel against the cargo of a sunken ship in the United States court here.

With the assistance of a chart in his possession Capt. Jennings has been searching for this vessel from time to time for many years.

It is supposed to have gone ashore in 1835, loaded with ore from the Mexican mines.

It was found in five feet of water near Miami. Its cargo, which has only been partly examined, has been found to consist of silver ore.

Legs Broken by Long Fall.

Michael Sullivan and George Williams, workmen on the building at 414 North Broadway, which is being repaired, suffered fractures of their legs through the fall of an elevator used for lifting brick to the roof of the building. The men were dropped from the second floor to the basement. Williams lives at 807 North Eleventh street and Sullivan at 112 North Fourteenth street.

And so is the Dress Suit of 1903.

But there are many differences in the details—and you may be stouter or thinner today than you were a few years ago.

If you are, you need a new suit—Dress Suits are not elastic like a rubber stocking.

THE MAN IN THE STREET

Paving Inconveniences.

It is not, as might be generally surmised, to see what is on the other side of the blocks that induces the contractors to continually tear up the pavement. They have examined every facet of every paving block in the city a number of times, and discovered by actual measurements the cube root of each. Nor is it to test the Christian spirit of our citizens under trial and annoyance, that they do this thing.

No, this ceaseless uptearing of the streets is a part of the plans that are being worked out for the development of new St. Louis, and the benefit of posterity. It is true that, as a celebrated man once remarked, "Posterity has done nothing for us," but we can afford to be generous, and heap coals of fire upon its prospective head. We will place all the public utilities that can be placed there, underground, and leave our streets to our children, free of impediment. Citizens may ask in scorn why the city does not catalogue all the things that can be placed underground, and place them all at once. Why lay the sewers, restore the paving; dig it up again to lower the telephone wires; go through the same performance for gas mains and refrigerator pipes and so on ad infinitum? But such citizens do not understand the philosophy of city government. Its processes are essentially slow. The vast wealth it commands must be divided among as many contractors as possible. No deadly surplus must be permitted to accumulate in the public treasury to tempt boodlers, or lighten the burden of taxpayers.

And we are working not for the present generation, but for posterity. We are unworthy of the blessings we are creating. We will hand down to our children a perfect city—all we ask is the money that we make out of the contracts.

And if posterity wants to dig up the things we have put down to repair them, that is its own affair.

We doff our hat to the eminent respectability of Washington University which refused to allow Boodler Charles Kelly to matriculate as a student in the law school. Let Missouri live up to Washington University.

And not be imitating all the animals you see,
And allowing your dressmaker to "improve" on God's design?

We have seen you as a "greyhound" and a pesky kangaroo;
The gamut of the zoo you have run completely through;
Did you ever find a beast in there that's handsomer than you?

And now, Dame Fashion orders, you must change again your shape,
And the model that she offers it makes the senses reel;
Like a monster of the deep, it will make our flesh to creep
To see you wriggle 'round us as a big "high bust-ed" eel!

WM. H. ELLIS, A TEXAS NEGRO

Man, Who Will Lead a Gorgeous Expedition to Menelik's Country. Had Remarkable Career.

Special to The Post-Dispatch

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 25.—William H. Ellis, who is named in London and Paris dispatches as being at the head of a gorgeous expedition that is to visit King Menelik of Abyssinia, is a Texas negro. He was born at Victoria, Tex., and lived for many years at San Antonio, where his mother and brothers still reside.

When out of Texas, Ellis says he is a Cuban, but when at his old home, he is known and treated as a negro.

He has had an unusual career. His mother was very poor, but through the interest taken in him by white friends in San Antonio, Ellis got a good education. He speaks Spanish fluently.

His mother and brother are black, but Ellis is a mulatto. His sister caused a stir at a Chicago university a few years ago when she attempted to associate with white students.

Ellis is the man who attempted to colonize several hundred Alabama negroes in Mexico several years ago. Smallpox broke out among the negroes, and most of them died. The good offices of the United States government was necessary to get the survivors back to their Alabama homes.

Ellis was backed by a Texas banker, and went to New York City about ten years ago and opened offices on Wall street. He became connected with the Westchester Water Co., and, according to reports which he sent to his Texas acquaintances from time to time, he is now a multi-millionaire. Later he was heard of in connection with Fayne Moore, a "badger" woman in New York City.

STOP THE HAZING.

Secretary Moody Wants the Practice to Cease at Annapolis.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Hazing at Annapolis was one of the subjects discussed at the navy department today between Secretary Moody and Capt. Willard H. Brownson, superintendent of the naval academy. Since returning from his vacation, Capt. Brownson has instituted a thorough investigation of affairs at the academy, and today informed the secretary that no hazing existed at Annapolis. There are not more than 20 upper class men at the institution. As soon as the 'midshipmen return from their holiday, the superintendent will renew the vigorous policy against hazing, which proved effective last year.

Secretary Moody recently said to Capt. Brownson: "If hazing exists at Annapolis, stop it and the navy department will back you."

CRONIN REFUSES TO KISS BLARNEY

St. Louis Statesman and Jurist Says the Popular Operation Is Too Risky.

Now comes news of the wanderings of James H. Cronin. A letter was received from him Friday morning by Fred Mehl. It is dated Cork, Sept. 14, and shows that "Jim" left quite a trail over "Ireland and Europe," and that he will probably be in St. Louis early next week, which spot he trenchantly observes is "good enough for me."

But the letter speaks for itself:

"We are now in Cork for a few days. Will sail from Queentown Sept. 19, and arrive in New York about Sept. 26. We were in Washington for a few days, then went to Mount Vernon, George Washington's home, then to New York, where Dick Croker used to live over to Brooklyn to the navy yard. Saw John Thomas Brady in New York. He was working for Johnny Ryan down at Saratoga. We were at Coney Island, Staten Island and Brighton Beach. Saw "Seven-up" Jim, Kid Varner, Mike Howenthal and Detective Jim Tracy's brother in New York. They all treated my right.

"We sailed August 14, and arrived in Liverpool on the 23d. Went to London and stayed there fifive days. Met Julius Wurtzberger, Col. John Overall, Thompson of the Bank of Commerce. Left for Paris on the English channel to Boulonge by the way of Folkstone. Stayed in Paris five days and saw Ellis Wainwright, was up to his private office. Left Paris by way of Calais and Dover over the English channel.

"Back to London, stayed there four days. Left for Dublin over the Irish channel to Holyhead, then to Dublin. O, how sick I was! The channel is ten times worse than the Atlantic. Stayed in Dublin a few days and went to Limerick, where I stayed a few days. Went to Limerick for a few days and then to Killarney to see the lakes. A terrific cyclone occurred the day we were at the lakes. Went to Glengariff, then to Bantry, then to Cork and went over to Blarney to kiss the Blarney stone, but it was too risky. We leave to go to the County Mayo, then to County Limerick, then to Queenstown and back home. St. Louis is good enough for me. Give the gang my regards. JIM."

FREE BOOKS ARE A SCHOOL ISSUE

Supply Companies Complain to Belleville Board of Increased Number of "Indigent" Parents.

The board of education of Belleville will meet Friday night to consider the question of the allotment of free text books to the children of indigent parents.

The school board is compelled by the state law to furnish free books to such children and of late there has been a marked increase in the number of applications. It is declared that some families are taking advantage of the offer. Under the contract with the book companies the expense of furnishing the free books falls on the company and not on the board, but the companies, it is said, have protested at the number of books they have been called upon to supply.

The school board can bring civil action in cases where parents who are able to buy books have accepted free ones.

Philanthropist's Funeral.

Among those who attended the funeral of Morris S. Rosenheim, held from his late residence, at 3315 Laclede avenue, with services by Rabbi Sale, were many who could bear testimony to the many deeds of charity and kindness that had characterized his life of half a century. Mr. Rosenheim was long connected with the jewelry business in St. Louis, and his philanthropy was well known. It was said of him that he was never deaf to an appeal for help, and that he gave away a small fortune every year.

HAPPY RESULTS OBTAINED

By the Use of the New Scalp Antiseptic.

It wouldn't take long to number the hairs in the heads of some people, the reason being they haven't many to number. In most instances, however, the fault is their own. A germ at the root soon plays havoc with the most luxuriant growth and causes it to fade and fall out. A remedy for this has recently been discovered, called Newbro's Herpicide, that acts by destroying the germ that does the damage, besides removing all impurities from the scalp. In addition it permits new life and vigor to enter the scalp, and happy results are sure to be obtained from its use. Try it. Sold by leading druggists. BIG BUGGY FACTORY PLANNED

Condition Is Passage of Ordinance for Which House Asks Compensation to City.

Representatives of the John Deere Plow Co. of Moline, Ill., which recently absorbed the Mansur & Tebbetts Implement Co. of St. Louis, announced their intention of building a $400,000 buggy factory in North St. Louis. They say that the passage of the bill granting them the use of 15 feet of Monroe street from Broadway to Second street, enabling them to secure adequate shipping facilities, will mean the beginning of the work at once. The factory will be located on the block between Broadway, Monroe, Second and Clinton streets.

The plans of the company were explained to the North St. Louis Business Men's Association and the co-operation of that association in securing the passage of the bill, which is now before the House, was pledged. The House desires the company to pay the city $3000 for the privilege.

KITCHEN PURITY.

The unpleasant, greasy odors that often linger in the kitchen, around the sink, etc., are a real menace to health. Unclean smells are caused by decomposing organic matter, the food and life of microbes

Absolute purity in the kitchen can only be obtained by the constant use of an efficient disinfectant.

CN (it's Chloro-Naptholeum) is the surest, safest household disinfectant. It is powerful enough to destroy every particle of germ-life and to rid the house of every kind of vermin, but it is absolutely harmless. The odor of CN reaches into the dark hiding places about the house where microbes lurk, and completely destroys them. No disease germ can escape from the effect of CN.

Hospitals, Hotels, Public Institutions, all recognize the value of CN. It is used by the Sanitary Division of the St. Louis Board of Health, by the St. Louis City Hospital, and other similar institutions, not only in St. Louis, but all over the world. Severe tests in bacteriological laboratories have established the superiority of CN over other disinfectants.

THREE BROTHERS TO DIE TOGETHER

JURORS AGAINST CLEMENCY

First Time in History When Three Persons So Closely Related Have Expiated Crime With Life

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Death in the electric chair in the week beginning October is the fate that awaits the three Van Wormer brothers, convicted of the assassination of their old uncle, Peter A. Hallenbeck.

After a careful review of the evidence and all the circumstances which might be urged in mitigation, even after the Court of Appeals had affirmed the finding of the trial court, Gov. Odell refused today to interfere with the sentence of execution.

He wrote a special decision, in which he made clear that no more painful duty could have been imposed upon him, but he was powerless to take any other action. Respites had been granted to the condemned men, so that their legal advisers could bring forward every plea and present every argument for a commutation, but outside of sentimental sympathy there was not one which would give the governor any possible excuse for interference.

The plea of symphty was based on no other grounds than it was a horrible thing to put to death three brothers just over the threshold of manhood. It came not from the vicinity where the cruel crime was committed, but from persons in communities who knew nothing of the circumstances and who were moved to expostulation on the general principle that capital punishment was a barbarism.

None of these stopped to think that so long as the law remained on the statute books its enforcement was imperative and could not be disobeyed. In Columbia County, where everybody knows how the defenseless old man was stricken down without warning, the sentiment was unanimous for full and complete expiation.

Jury Unanimous for Death Sentence

Most extraordinary of all was the signing of a petition by every man of the 12 in the jury that brought in the verdict of guilty, protesting against the exercise of executive clemency. The entire community was against it. The Van Wormers had not one friend, outside of their counsel, to speak in their behalf.

Peter A. Hallenbeck was a farmer living in the town of Greenport, Columbia County. On Christmas eve, 1901, Willis Van Wormer, Burton Van Wormer and Frederick M. Van Wormer, his nephews by marriage, accompanied by Harvey Bruce, a friend, drove to his farm house at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, stopping at a church entertainment on the way to learn if the old man was there. Incidentally they stole three or four whips and robes. Then they put masks over their faces, turned their coats inside out, and, leaving their horse and buggy in a shed near by, went to the farmer's house. Each carried a loaded revolver.

One of the quartet knocked at the door and Hallenbeck appeared. A volley of bullets was poured into him. It is supposed he believed himself to have been attacked by robbers, for he struggled to reach an old-fashioned gun rack to get a weapon with which to defend himself, but fell dead with nine bullets in his body. Mrs. Hallenbeck was in the house, fled upstairs and hid and so escaped the fate of her husband. The murderers returned to their rig, drove into the village and showed themselves at different points, for the purpose, as disclosed in the trial, of establishing an alibi.

Governor's Analysis of the Evidence

They were arrested, tried and convicted, after a skillful defense. There was no error in law or fact on which the Court of Appeals could order a reversal, and the verdict of murder in the first degree had to stand. In his refusal to interfere Gov. Odell says, after a careful analysis of the evidence:

"The duty of denying an appeal to set aside a death penalty, no ground existing for granting it, is always a most painful act; and in the case of these three brothers is exceedingly so; but there is no way of escape from it. There is absolutely no ground that could justify the commutation asked for them, and there remains to me no choice but to refuse to grant it."

The three brothers now are in the death cells in Dannemora Prison, up in the rocks and forests of the Adirondacks. They will be led out one by one on the morning of their execution and done to death in accordance with law. They are 22, 26 and 28 years old, respectively.

The order of precedence in the legal killing will be determined by the warden the day before they awaken to see the sun rise for the last time. The oldest will probably die first. It will be the first time in the history of capital punishment in this country and probably in the world that three brothers are to die in such a manner at the hands of the state, one after the other.

Each prison in the state of New York has one "death chair." Occasion has arisen on two occasions to use it for the killing of two murderers in succession on the same day and within the same hour, but in no prison in New York or in Massachusetts or Ohio, where the extreme penalty is inflicted by a current of electricity, has it been used for the shocking to death of three brothers; in fact, there is no record, so far as known, of such an execution having taken place even when murderers were strangled with a hempen noose; but all Columbia County is waiting with a sort of grim satisfaction for the ringing down of the curtain in the murder of old Peter Hallenbeck.

STILL TIME TO BUILD LOOP

President McChesney Says Terminal Will Begin Work at Once If City Would Grant Franchise.

President McChesney of the Terminal Association stated Friday that if the Municipal Assembly would grant the authority at once there was still time to complete the levee loop, which includes the construction of an approach to the Eads bridge, by the time the World's Fair opens.

He says the task would require working a force of men night and day, but the need for such an extension of passenger terminal facilities is such that the terminal people are willing to undertake it.

Arrangements are now perfected whereby the terminal can send all trains to the World's Fair grounds over the belt line which circles the northern part of the city and connects with the Wabash tracks at Page avenue.

When the loop is built, which will mean a four-track elevated system on the Levee for a distance of 2100 feet, the tunnel will be used exclusively for freight trains.

"Lady Rose's Daughter" at Albany.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 25.—"Lady Rose's Daughter," with Fay Davis and other members of Charles Frohman's New York Empire Theater Co., was produced at the Empire Theater here last night, and made a distinct hit. Fay Davis as Julie Le Breton showed remarkable emotional power. Ida Vernon's Lady Henry de [illegible] was a clever piece of work. The Jacob de Lapeld of Guy Standing was also most praiseworthy. Ida Waterman was a charming Mrs. Montreson. There is little doubt that the play is destined for a long run.

Maxine Elliott in "Her Own Way."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Maxine Elliott's debut as a star in Clyde Fitch's new play, "Her Own Way," under the direction of Charles B. Dillingham, proved a great success last night.

The new piece is equal to Mr. Fitch's best work and in it he has given Miss Elliott a role which displays her, not only in comedy, but also in strong emotional situations. She acquitted herself splendidly. Miss Elliott's support is excellent.

Arthur Byron, who is soon to star in Clyde Fitch's "Maj. Andre," scored strongly as Sam Coast, a Wall street operator.

N. C. Goodwin, Forbes Robertson and his wife, Gertrude Elliott, and Clyde Fitch were in boxes.

Miss Elliott was called before the curtain after each act. At the close of the third act Clyde Fitch, the author, was obliged to respond, and expressed his thanks and the thanks of the company for the generous reception.

Lillian Russell in Male Attire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Weber & Fields opened their playhouse tonight with a new extravaganza, "Whoop-dee-doo," which made a hit.

There was no attempt at a plot, but the funmaking never lags and the music was bright and catchy. The scene was laid at Coney Island. In the cast were Weber and Fields, Lillian Russell (who wore male attire in one scene), Peter F. Dailey, John Kelley, Louis Mann, Carter De Haven and Evi Stetson.

The closing act represents a popular resort at Coney Island and the characters impersonate well-known creations of the cartoonists of the day, as shown in the humorous supplements of the New York Sunday newspapers. After the play many floral pieces were carried down to the stage and the audience remained situated while all the stars made speeches of thanks.

J. M. Barrie's New Play.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—J. M. Barrie's new play, entitled "Little Mary," and rightly called by the author on the program "An uncomfortable play," was produced at Wyndham's theater tonight by Charles Frohman, and scored an unequivocal success. The play is of the same order as "The Admirable Crichton," and the moral that Mr. Barrie, in this case, seeks to point out, is that the English aristocracy overeats, and the upper classes can only be regenerated by recognition of this fact.

The scene is laid in a modern country-house. The play is very brightly written and admirably acted by John Hare, Gerald du Maurier and others, while Nina Boucicault, as an Irish child in the prologue, and later as the high priestess of the new faith, carried off the chief honors of the evening.

BABIES' HOME IN MODEL CITY.

Day Nursery and Woman's Rest Included in Exhibits.

In a conference between Director of Works Taylor of the World's Fair and members of the board of lady managers it was decided that a day nursery and woman's rest would be a part of the Model City, which will probably be located near the main Fair entrance at De Baliviere avenue.

The plans for the nursery are prepared by John A. Gade of New York, who, in company with Mrs. James L. Blair, Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge of New York and Mrs. Belle L. Everest of Kansas, conferred with Mr. Taylor.

The building is to cost $30,000. It will be a U-shaped, two-story structure. Eighteen nurses will be employed and 200 babies will be cared for at a time.

Corner Loafers Not Wanted.

The question of clearing North End business corners of undesirable persons was brought before the North End Business Men's Association at its last meeting by Fred Klinge, a director, who said that the police permitted men to hang around the neighborhood of Nineteenth and Montgomery streets and annoy girls and women. The association thought the matter could be corrected by police summons against the offenders.

TABY TOSA SEEMS BEST IN FEATURE

He Beat Little Scout and Little Scout Beat Siddons—Albula the Chief Contender.

FOREHAND IN THE THIRD

Today's Program a Good One, With Exception of the First Two Races.

BY R. D. WALSH.

DELMAR RACETRACK, Sept. 25.—The contests at Delmar this afternoon should be well worth witnessing, barring the first two races. These have large fields, and will therefore probably result in surprises. The feature of the program will be the fourth race at one mile and three-sixteenths for 3-year-olds and upward.

One of the best contests of the meeting should result from this race. With the exception of Tommy Hill all the candidates have an excellent chance to win the purse. Tommy is a Fort Erie product, but his record is not of a character to warrant the influence that he can win here. According to form he should run last, but form is a variable thing.

Siddons ran a splendid race at this distance last week against Little Scout. Scout won by half a length and gave Siddons nine pounds. A few days previously Taby Tosa beat Scout with eight pounds in favor of Taby. Today Siddons will carry the same weight and Taby will have four pounds off, and on these figures Taby Tosa has a decided advantage.

Monsieur Beaucaire ran an excellent race with 107 pounds up. Today he will carry only 101, but at that he is giving weight to every horse in the race, as he is a 3-year-old and the others are 4 and over. Imp. Albula seems to me to be the contender here. This will be his second start at Delmar, his previous one having been at six furlongs. On that occasion he was unfortunate, having ran away half a mile before the race, yet he was beaten only two heads on the post for first money. His forte, however, is not sprinting, and if Taby Tosa is beaten it will be by Albula. Taby is the gamest horse that ever raced in St. Louis, and he is never beaten until the winner's number is hung out by the judges.

Forehand Should Win the Third.

The third race should also be an interesting contest between five good 2-year-olds. Brancas, Old Stone and Forehand are among the best of their age in St. Louis and a good deal will depend on how they are piloted. If McKinney rides Forehand, that colt's price should be at least 100 to 1.

Mendon and Lord Hermence are a little outclassed in this company, although both of these horses won their last races. With a good rider in the saddle Forehand should win this race because he has the most speed and he has shown on several occasions that he is a good weight carrier.

Brancas seems to be the dangerous one, and I prefer him to Old Stone for second place.

If Dan McKenna runs as well today as he did Wednesday he should win the fifth race. With the same weight up as he will have today he ran seven furlongs in 1:28¾ over a comparatively slow track. The track today will be a trifle faster than it was Wednesday.

Bengal has not been out for a long time, but at this weight and distance he is dangerous in almost any company. With a little less weight up Allopath might win here. She has won some good races at Fort Erie, but it will be prudent to see how she will like the sharp turns at Delmar before speculating on her. She is a well-bred mare.

Montana Peeress is in such good form just now, that although she will carry five pounds more than she did in her last two races she should yet win. The time to wager on a horse is when it is in winning form. Worthington is a very fast horse for this distance, but his forte seems to be heavy going.

Optional and Revenge Dare should have a close battle for second place. The former has probably more speed than Dare, though the latter is very gamey. Avoid does not figure to have much of a chance on her last race and besides she will have to carry an additional five pounds this afternoon.

My Surprise May Prove a Surprise.

My Surprise has some weight off his last races and this should help him. He has been running second and may finish first today. Witth only 88 pounds up Buglehorn has a splendid chance to win. Dr. Scharff ran third his last out and should do as well today where the company is no better. Sweet Charity is overweighted.

Pepper Dick won easily a few days ago with nine pounds more up than he is asked to carry today and on these figures he should certainly win. Maghoni has a great pull in the weights and as she seems to be rounding into form looks like the contender. Sting should be good enough to secure third money.

The Boulevard stakes, which was run yesterday, was won easily by the California mare Ewa G. This animal is greatly improved, and with anything less than 100 pounds in the saddle can give a close argument to the best horse at Delmar up to a mile. She ran yesterday as if she could go two miles just as easily.

Lady Strathmore and Helen Print ran dismal races. Both of these horses are completely out of form and it is doubtful whether either of them can win another race this year.

I said yesterday that the best thing on the card was Mag No'in. On figures this statement was easily susceptible of proof, but I was apparently greatly in error.

Mag ran one of these in and out races for which she has become noted. This particular race had a very unsavory look and it was severely commented on by the occupants of the grand stand. D. Austin, who rode her, should have received a valuable prize for the beautiful and artistic ride he gave her.

It is extraordinary how Mr. T. P. Hayes could have made such a mistake as to rid himself of the services of this capable jockey. He reminds one forcibly of the palmy days of Jimmie McLaughlin. Jockey F. Smith is the only rider at Delmar that can bear favorable comparison with the brilliant Austin.

RIORDAN'S MIGHTY KICK RETURNS

The Foot That Has Won Glory for C. B. C. on the Gridiron Will Work Again This Year

TODD TICKLED OVER OUTLOOK

Team Is Rapidly Assuming Condition —High School's Early Prospects Also Are Favorable

The Christian Brothers' College eleven is at present in the most advanced condition of any of the St. Louis college football teams. The only two absentees from the regular squad who are expected to make the first team, are the Jordan brothers, who will probably be sent in at guard.

The others have worked daily for nearly two weeks and will be in excellent shape for the first practice game of the season, which is being arranged for Oct. 3.

Conspicuous among the old men is James Riordan, fullback. Riordan shows up this season stronger and heavier than last season. Coach Todd is hugging himself with delight.

Last year Riordan was the sensation of the West. Game after game he scored points and won victories on his wonderful goal kicking. Place kicks at distances varying from 15 to 45 yards he made as easily as the ordinary fullback punts.

Riordan's work this season shows that he has not lost his skill and Coach Todd counts much on his work to keep the team at the front this year.

The veterans in Todd's squad are Riordan, O. Brockmeyer, Hastert, Roberts, Kyle, Bartliff and Jordan. The other men are gathered from last year's scrub team and from the newcomers.

The C. B. C. schedule has only two formidable games in it, those with Kirksville Osteopaths and the St. Louis University. Other dates are with the Gem City Business College of Quincy, McKendree College, Illinois State College and Illinois State Normal.

That Smith Academy will have a team of eleven men who will play as one is evident from the coaching that is being given that collection of football players.

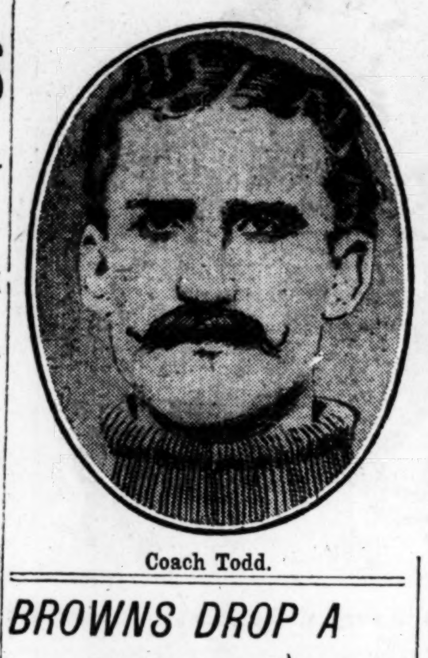

Yesterday the preliminary season's squad of 20 was in the rands of three competent coaches—McMillian, Jim Wear, the old Yale quarterback, and last year's coach, Ewerhardt. In addition to this list of directors, Eddie Lee, Jim Reynolds and other graduates of Smith Academy who have attained fame on eastern gridirons in recent years have announced their intention of turning out to help Smith get an eleven that can defeat High School.

Scrimmage practice was indulged in by the Smith men for the first time yesterday. Today's practice is expected to bring out the largest squad of the season. Ed Stannard, who was missing yesterday, is expected to take his place at tackle. In the practice line-up yesterday were Capt. Nolte, Prewitt, Arnheiter, Curby, Schock, Kimbrough, Campbell, Smith, Swartz, Sigmund, Hoevel, Burg, Jarvis, Chew and Tilton.

The new tackling dummy was raised yesterday and 15 minutes' practice was spent in downing the imaginary enemy. The dummy will be painted red and black, and will suffer terribly before the season is through.

In preparation for Saturday's contest with Shurtleff College High School will have its final practice this afternoon. Only a few days of scrimmage work have been induiged in by the red and black players, but yesterday's work showed the men to be in condition. Ben Gray, Waggoner, the Smith boys and others of last season's regulars lined up with the scrubs against the regulars and a hot practice ensued. The regulars showed up well and the High School followers were satisfied with the team's showing. Sixteen players will go to Alton Saturday with the eleven.

BROWNS DROP A DOUBLE-HEADER

New York Takes Kindly to Pelty and Sudhoff, Connecting Victoriously With the Slants of Each.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The St. Louis Browns will wind up their season here in a game this afternoon with the invaders for opponents. Wright or Morgan will probably be tried out by the visitors. Following today's game the Browns go to Boston, where they conclude the season.

Yesterday's double-header went to New York, St. Louis getting the short end of the score in the first game, 6 to 2, and in the second, 8 to 6.

Pelty pitched the opening game, but before he fairly got started the New Yorks had hammered out five runs. St. Louis could do nothing with Chesbro up to the eighth round, when two tallies saved them from a shutout.

In the second game a new pitcher, Putman, opposed the Browns with Sudhoff in the box. Wee Willie handed a collection of safeties to the enemy and five runs made in the opening round gave them the game. The Browns came hard and toward the latter part of the contest found the Putman shoots, but not for enough runs. The New Yorks managed to make three more off Sudhoff after the first and the visitors could not get up.

BOSTON-PIRATES SERIES IS OFF

Players of American League's Champion Team Demand All the Money and the Management Refuses.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—Unless either the management or the players of the Boston American League team back down from the positions they have taken, there will be no post-season series with Pittsburg for the championship.

The series has been officially called off by the Boston club, and there is only a remote chance that differences may be patched up.

The failure of the Boston club to live up to its agreement to meet the Pirates is due the attitude of the players. These demanded that the total receipts due Boston for the series be divided among the players, the management figuring as one player and to have one share.

This proposition was submitted to President Killilea and rejected as unfair, he demanding that half the receipts be granted the players and half to the management. The management offered also to pay the men two weeks' salary for one week's work, in addition, but the players refused to listen to the proposition.

Collins yesterday wired President Killilea that all negotiations were off.

All Boston is laughing at the absurd stand taken by the players. That the Boston management, whose capital and hard work has gotten together a winning aggregation should receive no more than one player's share is considered ridiculous.

Collins argues that his players made the championship a possibility for Mr. Killilea, but does not stop to consider that it was the investment of the management that made the getting together of the players possible.

The players' position is unheard of in the annals of baseball and will hurt the game. It is considered as illustrating that all such things as sentiment or civic pride in a team as mere myths and that the purely mercenary element is all that is left of the national pastime.

Amateurs Play Double-Header.

The Gittins and the Ben Millers, both regarded as strong teams in their class, will play a double-header Sunday afternoon at Gittins' Park. In the first game Smith and Roehmer of the Gittins and Kuarr and Huggans of the Ben Millers will be the opposing batteries. In the second game it will be Roehmer and Roehmer against Stevenson and Huggins.

KING FOOTBALL ON HIS THRONE

New Checkerboard Rules Will Be Given a Tryout in the Many Opening Games.

Saturday's Football Schedule.

EASTERN GAMES.

Yale vs. Trinity, at New Haven.
Harvard vs. Williams, at Cambridge.
Amherst vs. Williston, at Amherst.
Pennsylvania vs. Dickinson, at Philadelphia.
Cornell vs. Hobart, at Ithaca.
West Point vs. Colgate, at West Point.
Carlisle Indians vs. Gettysburg, at Carlisle.

WESTERN SCHEDULE.

Minnesota vs. Carleton College, at Minneapolis.
Nebraska vs. Grand Island, at Lincoln.
Iowa University vs. Cornell College, at Iowa City.
Northwestern vs. Naperville, at Evanston.
Illinois vs. Lombard, at Champaign.
Chicago vs. Lawrence, at Chicago.

LOCAL.

High School vs. Shurtleff College, at Alton.

Football under the new rules will have its first real tryout Saturday afternoon.

With the exception of one or two universities, every institution of importance that supports a football eleven will take a whirl at the revised game.

It is no longer the "gridiron battle," if you please, but the "checkerboard game," and what new moves are possible may develop to some extent as a result of Saturday's engagements.

Not much in the way of a lesson can be expected, however, as the men are by no means in shape to play hard games, and the elevens, for the most part, are merely embryonic.

With the exception of Harvard, none of the elevens appears to have opponents of any consequence. The Williams eleven usually makes the crimson wearers hurry to win, and will probably do so this year.

Yale has a feeble opponent in Trinity and the same may be said of the other elevens in the schedule. The effect of at least one of the new rules will have a thorough exposition, however—that giving the side scored against the option of kicking off. It is expected that the weaker team will force the side which scored to kick off, and thus give it a chance to handle the ball.

This rule may result in keeping down the scores.

The only game in which a local eleven is scheduled to take part is the High School-Shurtleff College contest at Alton. High has had its eleven in the field two weeks, but at that has had all too little scrimmage work.

The game played Saturday will show one thing—whether the policy of playing haevy men back of the line is to be general this year.

The limitation of mass playing has necessitated the devising of some means of getting more weight into attacks by the back field, and the only method that so far suggests itself is to increase the weight of the backs themselves. This will necessarily be at a sacrifice of speed and a tryout is needful to determine the value of the policy.

LOCAL WOMEN GOLFERS ENTER

Mrs. L. G. McNair and Miss Collins Will Try for the National Championship at Wheaton.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Entries for the national women's golf championship issued here yesterday include the names of Miss Edith Collins and Mrs. Lilburn G. McNair of the St. Louis Country Club.

The competition will be held on the links of the Chicago Golf Club at Wheaton, Ill., from Sept. 29 to Oct. 3.

Miss Genevieve Hecker, Mrs. Stout and Mrs. Manice are not entered in the tournament. Mrs. Stout was the national champion in 1901 and 1902 and Mrs. Manice was metropolitan champion for 1902. The race is considered almost at the mercy of Miss Bessie Anthony, now western champion.

Will Hold Swimming Races.

At a meeting of amateur swimmers held at the Missouri Athletic Club last night, arrangements were promoted toward the organization of a water polo team and the naming of dates for swimming contests to be held in the club's tank. The first race was set for Oct. 17. The drawing up of a program for that date was placed in the hands of a committee. Every two weeks following the opening races, other cards of swimming and polo events will be announced.

W. R. Orthwein and Alec McNert are in charge of the arrangements.

HAS PLUNGER "BALDY" RYAN BEEN WARNED AWAY FROM EASTERN TRACKS?

Picturesque St. Louisan and Representatives of the Jockey Club Deny It, but His Big Bets Are Not Looked Upon With Favor.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—John J. Ryan of St. Louis and Robert Pinkerton emphatically deny stories that the latter, acting for the Jockey Club, has warned Ryan away from New York tracks because of his big bets. Just how much faith one should have and where to put it seems uncertain. "Pittsburg Phil" and "Joe" Yeager were also said to have been warned to make less spectacular bets.

"The rumor that I have been ordered off the Jockey Club tracks is utterly untrue," said Ryan today. "I spent yesterday and part of the night calling upon the bookmakers for a settlement, but this is due wholly to the fact that I am leaving for Chicago, where I have been summoned upon important business. I have not left the turf and I will be seen at the tracks again next Wednesday, when I return to New York.

"I have an interest in four books on the eastern tracks. I will continue to look after those interests personally, and after Wednesday next I will be making bets or looking after my own books."

It is an open secret among the bookmakers and other betting men at the Jockey Club tracks that John J. Ryan is not popular, or even persona grata with the members of the Jockey Club. His methods in the betting ring are regarded unfavorably and his whirlwind plunges against the bookmakers are regarded as decidedly objectionable.

Ryan's announcement that he owned an interest in four books at the eastern tracks is one of his most interesting statements. It was known that he was back of the Considine book, but it was not generally known that he was interested in others.

Ever since he reached New York Ryan has been the most spectacular feature of racing in the East. He has been a consistent winner all through the season, however, and on last Saturday and Monday took an amount estimated at $170,000 from the bookmakers.

This action by the Jockey Club is regarded as merely a prelude to what will be done in case the lurid reports of the operations of these plungers do not cease shortly. During the entire summer there have been rumors that Ryan would be ruled off the track and it is quite likely that some such action will be taken if he does not fall in line with suggestions said to have been made to him.

CARDINALS ARE IDLE TODAY

Open Date in the National League Gives Locals Another Period of Rest.

The Cardinals are again idle today, this being an open date in the National League schedule, designed to enable teams to play postponed games.

Saturday and Sunday the Philadelphia team will play the last series of the championship season here. McFarland will probably pitch in Saturday's engagement.

Manager McGraw of New York is anxious to substitute for the Boston American League team in the post-season series planned with Pittsburg. Yesterday McGraw made a request to Dreyfuss that the Giants be permitted to take the place of the Boston team. Dreyfuss is considering the matter.

Hugh Duffy, manager of the Milwaukee baseball team, has been signed to take charge of the Philadelphia National League team next year, in place of Charles Zimmer, manager this year.

Jock Menefee, the Chicago pitcher, announces that he will retire from the game after this season.

Mathewson failed to pitch against the Pirates again yesterday. It is possible that Matty thinks the Pittsburgers are laying for a chance to break that eight straight victories record which is his season's score against them.

Pitcher Leon Ames, McGraw's new pitcher, who recently let St. Louis down without a hit or run, did another nice bit of pitching at Pittsburg yesterday. He beat the Pirates 7 to 2 and was hit safely only five times. Scanlon, a new twirler for the Pirates, opposed and was hit for the same number of safeties. Eight bases on balls and three errors by the Pirates explains the difference in the score.

BOWLING GOSSIP.

The Meyer Brothers' League will have its usual Friday night seance on downtown alleys.

The pill-rollers' exhibition last night will not win many pennants this year. In three matches the best of any of the six teams could do was a 45 1-25 average, made by the Moffit-Wests, when they beat the Merrells 4 to 1. Three teams fell below the 40 mark. The Mound City Paints managed to win the odd game from the Meyer Brothers and the Enderles defeated the Eli-Lillys, 4 to 1.

The Primroses of the new Bellefontaine League put up an excellent match against the Angelicas last night, winning all five games. The Bellefontaines are just starting, and a 49 team average, as that made by the Primrose team, looks good. The Primrose bowlers took all five games from the Angelicas. Other matches in the Bellefontaine organization last night were: Blue Bells, 3; Skinner-Kennedys, 2; Oaks, 3; Orientals, 2.

The Rooters of the Carondelet League made a clean sweep last night in their match with the Rivals. The Rollers won four games from the Ramblers and the Royals took three from the Rialtos in the other Carondlet League matches.

The Olives of the Office Men's League won 3 to 2 from the Delmars.

Many Attractions at Lemp's.

The Lemp's Park Carnival will open for a two weeks' run Sunday, Sept. 27. Preparations have been made for large crowds. Among the attractions billed are Prof. Rice's dog, monkey and pony show, the electric theater, the Athletic Girls, German village, the old plantation, the mirror show, Chas. Fitzgerald, the Monte Cristo diver, and the midway.

HAS BRAVE PATSY LOST COURAGE?

Rumor That Donovan Will Quit the Cardinals Seems to Have Foundation, but Is Not Verified.

Once more rumor has Manager P. J. Donovan retiring from baseball. According to friends of the Cardinals' manager, he is contemplating leaving the club that has caused him so much worry this season. Sickness and his non-success with the aggregation of minor leaguers under him is the reported cause of his withdrawal.

Another report has it that Donovan will remain with the Cardinals as captain, but that another man will be secured as manager. Donovan refused to discuss the subject today, stating that he had not outlined any plan and that later on he would consider the proposition of continuing in the game.

The report of Donovan's possible retirement is somewhat borne out by dispatches from Chicago which state that the Cardinals' management is dickering with Bobby Lowe as manager for next season. Lowe was formerly with the Chicago Club and is also wanted by Comiskey as manager.

Jimmy Ryan is also mentioned in connection with the position. Ryan was considered last year by the Cardinals' management when it was reported that Donovan had quit the game. Patsy was induced to stay with the St. Louis team after much persuasion by Messrs. Robison for a consideration enough to make any player stay in the game. This figure was set at $9000.

Mr. Stanley Robison says that it is too early to discuss plans for next year and that he has no information as to any plans of Donovan relative to quitting the national game.

"We are preparing to strengthen up the club in several ways," said Mr. Robison, "but our plans are not yet far enough advanced to give them out. Material changes may be made in them before we are through. Donovan has played ball that has been entirely satisfactory to us and we should be sorry to lose the services of so valuable a man."

Donovan has had a hard row to hoe in his management of the club. At the start of the season he had the biggest squad of players in the National League. At one time he had no less than 14 pitchers signed. Of them all he now has two who are considered first-class men—Brown and McFarland.

To make matters worse Barclay went back on his 1902 form, Brain failed to put up anything like the baseball that even Oom Paul Kruger played at short, and no first baseman could be found worth the name.

Trouble between Donovan and some of the players interfered with the effectiveness of the team. Of late it has not been playing even as good baseball as it is capable of, but Donovan's absence from the team, owing to illness, may have brought this about.

PITCHER PUTTNAM A RARE FIND

So Thinks Griffith of the Recruit Who Downed the Browns.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Pitcher Puttnam, the new twirler for the New York American League team, who yesterday bested Wee Willie Sudhoff of the St. Louis Browns in a pitchers' battle, is considered by Manager Clark Griffith to be the "find" of the season.

Griffith picked him up from the St. Paul team. He had not been warming up five minutes before Griffith and the other players were struck with his terrific speed and the excellent control he has of some remarkable "breaks." Under fire yesterday Puttnam was cool as ice. Six errors were made by the team behind him, but Puttnam kept his balance. He was hit safely eight times, twice for scratches. He gave but one base on balls and struck out the same number of men that Sudhoff did.

ECZEMA SETS THE SKIN ON FIRE

No disease causes so much bodily discomfort, or itches, burns and stings like Eczema. Beginning often with a slight redness of the skin it gradually spreads, followed by pustules or blisters from which a gummy, sticky fluid oozes which dries and scales off or forms bad looking sores and scabs. It appears on different parts of the body but oftenest upon the back, arms, hands, legs and face, and is a veritable torment at times, especially at night or when overheated.

In 1896 I experienced at times patches on the inside of my hands that itched and burned, causing much discomfort. As time went by it grew worse, and I was convinced that I was afflicted with Eczema. I consulted several physicians and a number of specialists, and used several external applications, receiving but slight temporary relief. In February I decided to try S. S. S., and in less than a month I experienced a change for the better, and by May all symptoms had disappeared, and I found myself entirely cured, and have had no return of the disease since. W. F. BRUSH, Manager Stockman's Advertising Agency, Station A, Kansas City, Mo.

The cause of Eczema is a too acid and general unhealthy condition of the blood. The terrifying itching and burning is produced by the overflow through the glands and pores of the skin of the fiery poisons with which the blood-current is over-loaded. While external applications, such as washes, soaps, salves and powders are soothing and cooling they do not enter into the blood itself or touch the real cause of the disease, but S. S. S. does, and purifies, enriches, and strengthens the thin acid blood and cleanses and builds up the general system, when the skin clears off and Eczema with all its terrifying symptoms disappears.

ST. CHARLES CLERK "LOVELY"

Youthful Pair on Whom Belleville and Clayton Authorities Frowned Find Matrimonial Haven.

Edward Aurbey Schatzman married pretty Vera G. Widen despite the objections of her parents and the official perversity of two marriage license clerks. After being refused a license at Clayton July 22, and at Belleville Aug. 15, they went to St. Charles Thursday, found an accommodating clerk, and were married before Rev. Dr. Kammerer, rector of the Episcopal Church, Thursday evening they repeated the ceremony before Father Bronsgeest of St. Francis Xavier's Church.

The young lady graduated from Hosmer Hall last June. Her father, Joseph B. Widen of 4129 Delmar boulevard objected to her marriage because she was only 17; the marriage license clerk at Clayton refused to issue a license because the couple "looked too kiddish," the Belleville functionary refused on the same grounds; but the St. Charles official was, according to the happy bride, "just lovely," and did not make any embarrassing objections.

Mr. Schatzman is 20, a resident of Benton, and a descendant of one of the first of the old French families of St. Louis. His grandfather was the French admiral, Aurbey.

CASE 34 YEARS OLD IS SETTLED

After Long Period of Litigation Contestants Come to Peaceful Adjustment Out of Court.

Litigation begun in 1869 for an accounting to his children of the estate held by the late Charles Bobb has finally been settled out of court.

Charles L. Bobb, a son of the original holder of the estate and owner of practically all the claims through purchase and the death of his brothers and sisters who originally were parties with him as plaintiffs, wins the fight.

Mrs. Julia A. Manning, his half-sister and the only one of the original defendants who is still living, retains only a $3000 homestead interest in the property at 3531 Lawton avenue.

The Missouri Pacific Railroad and George J. Gould, who were made defendants some years after the beginning of the litigation, pay Bobb a lump sum to clear the title to their property, purchased from Charles Bobb, at Sixth and Gratiot streets.

The suit was begun as the result of Charles Bobb's refusal, after his second marriage to make an accounting to the children of his first wife according to the terms of a trust agreement in which he was named as trustee for the benefit of the children of an estate which he and his first wife had accumulated.

In June, 1878, Charles Bobb was removed as trustee of the estate and judgment was given against him for the rents and profits of the property since the beginning of the receivership. A month later the children brought suit to have other property acquired by the father made subject to the judgments, amounting in 1897, when the suit was decided, to $154,285.71.

Division and sale of the original property rendered other suits against persons outside of the family necessary, and they have occupied the attention of the courts for the past six years. Mrs. Manning held four pieces of property, besides the homestead, and these, by the terms of the settlement, she relinquishes.

BIG SLUMP IN MORGAN STOCKS

openly antagonistic to the Morgan interest for several years.

They believe that several enterprises Mr. Morgan has floated within the last year were put upon the market at an unfortunate time and they unquestionably helped to force liquidation in Morgan stocks.

Wall street believes the only thing that can prevent liquidation from going much further is an alliance for mutual protection such as the one suggested.

The Slump Goes Right On.

Yesterday's liquidation in the stock market was very generally renewed at the opening today, and further severe declines were registered. All the United States Steel issues dropped to new low records, the common selling as low as 16⅝, following opening sales of 4000 shares at from 16⅝ to 16¾. The preferred stock declined to 62¾ and 5 per cent bonds were quoted at 71½, a drop of ½ per cent from yesterday's low price.

The market steadied soon after the opening on buying orders which seemed in the nature of support and were said to emanate from strong quarters. There was also a great deal of short covering.

Reports that leading financial interests had formed an agreement to support the market today could not be verified. Save for slight reactions, the market continued steady up to noon, at prices slightly below the top. Business showed a marked falling off from the early activity.

Shortly after noon the market again declined as a result of another drop in the steel stocks, which carried them still lower. The common stock sold at 18, the preferred at 60¾ and the 5 per cent bonds at 71. The selling of these securities was very general and unexplained. The rest of the list went down in sympathy. The heaviness of the general market was reflected on the "curb," the most noteworthy nature there being a 5 per cent decline in Interborough Rapid Transit, a break of over 9 points in two days. The industrials on the "curb" were all weak.

The Evening Post said today: "Prominent banking interests announced today that after the close of yesterday's market they had undertaken an investigation to see whether there were any weak houses in the Wall street region. This investigation, although informal, was conducted by interests of such extensive connections as to make it unusually trustworthy. They make the unequivocal statement today that the situation had developed no dangerous features, and that not a single stock exchange house was in the slightest way embarrassed. They said, however, that the feeling of uncertainty prevailing in most quarters had given rise to many rumors, all of which were without foundation so far as they related to the stability of any large interest."

NEEDS BETTER HORSES.

To Improve the Breed Sunday Racing May Be Permitted by Germany.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Count von Lehndorff, the Prussian master of the horse, has reported to Emperor William that the climatic and food conditions make German horses inferior to the English and French horses, and that, therefore, a full regeneration of the German stock cannot be too quickly brought about by importing stallions. Much of the horse food used in Germany is now brought from America. Count von Lehndorff suggests popularizing horse racing by permitting bookmaking and Sunday racing.

TO ATTACK ST LOUIS.

Chicago Will Make Charges Against the World's Fair City—Interest Centered in the Outcome of the Case.

In the case of the State of Missouri against Illinois, in the Supreme Court, Chicago will charge that St. Louis herself turns her sewage into the Mississippi river and contaminates the water of the cities below.

Churches Abandon Fair Plan.

Inability to secure proper financial support has caused the abandonment of plans for an interdenominational evangelistic meeting in St. Louis during the World's Fair. The committee to which the proposition was referred by the Evangelical Alliance has reported adversely, and it is expected that the report will be adopted.

BRIGHT FLASHES OF FUN THROWN OUT BY PINE KNOT EDITOR-STATESMAN

J. Adam Bede, Journalist and Congressman, Lards the Banquet of the Associated Press With Stories That Are Not Stale and Sayings That Are Sparkling.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—With a single speech, J. Adam eBde has placed himself in the front rank of funny men and banquet entertainers. Mr. Bede is ex-United States marshal for Minnesota, editor of the Pine Knot Budget and member of Congress from the Sixth (Duluth) district of Minnesota.

The editor-statesman of the land of wheat fields was one of the speakers at the recent Associated Press banquet in this city. He began:

"I fully realize that neither time would permit, nor this audience endure, anything sensible from me, especially at this hour of the night. (Laughter.) I am somewhat in the position of a young lady friend of mine who was very thin and very homely, and had sense enough to know it, who desired to unite with the church. And when the good preacher told her she would have to renounce the world, the flesh, and the devil she responded that she was willing to renounce the world and the devil, but rather than lose any more flesh she would join a sideshow. And so I realize that whether I express my real thoughts or not tonight, you could possibly see through me and get them yourselves.

"Two years ago you used our butter here. Do you remember how the little families in the backwoods set the cream on the back shelf in the living room, where all the folks sat and talked, and smoked tobacco and other things. Why do you know the milk would take up all those things, those odors, you know, and when you brought the butter down to New York and ate it at Delmonico's or the Waldorf-Astoria, you could taste every member of the family. Now we are improving those things, and the world is getting better as we go along.

Of course my associations have been very largely with cattle in the west and what little culture I have attained I have gotten from cattle, not from politicians (laughter), and after an arduous campaign no one can understand how delightful it is to get away from the maelstrom of politics and associate with cows again. Now, I have been told in other cities a united impression is abroad here in New York that you can lick a Jersey cow and make her give whipped cream. That is not the ordinary way of getting that product for the market. You have to be kind to your cows. More than that, you have to use good language in their presence or the butter fat will be driven away, and it has become a business proposition with us folks out in Minnesota to be decent. (Prolonged laughter and applause.) You have got to be kind to your cows to get the best results, and it changes you gradually. Be kind to your animals, and after a while you will be good even to your wife.

You may remember the effort that was made to start a Christian Endeavor Society some time since in the Philippines to bring about a state of civilization, but at last they had to give it up, because there was nothing to do the padres on. (Laughter and applause.) So I say, the world is getting a little better along these lines, too. Why, did you ever stop to think that civilization begins in a cold country? You cannot go down (at least you never did go down) to the tropics and start a civilization, and go north. You always begin north and go south. You have got to have a concentration—we had snow in Minnesota the other day; you have to have something that makes a rugged manhood and womanhood to do business in this little world, and so it happens that temperate climates like ours—like our northern part of the United States—starts the ball rolling, and civilizes the rest of you equatorialities in the course of a little time.

I was talking to a friend of mine who owns a large ranch in North Dakota—a large ranch; we do not call it a plantation up there. He said he had become worried with all this recent progress; that he not only had to buy improved chinery, but that it had come down to a point where he had to build a gymnasium on his farm to give his hired men exercise after they came in from their work. So I say, the world is getting better—and easier. In a little while farming will become a profession. It will be one of the most refined of the professions.

I met a friend of mine complaining one day. He was just coming out of a saloon. He had been in buying some lining for his underclothes, I presume. He said his horse went dead, and his mule went lame, and he lost six cows in a poker game; then a hurricane came on a summer's day and blew his house away; and then an earthquake came and swallowed the land the house stood on; and then the tax collector came and charged him up with taxes on the hole the house went in.

As I said, great civilizations must come from a cold climate like the United States. You are shaping the destiny of the world. You have got the power to do some things that I cannot do. I have got the western people to quit yelling for flat money. Now I would like you to get the eastern people to quit yelling for flat stocks. (Laughter.) We will quit watering our goods if you will quit watering yours.

* * *

The question of the trusts has been touched upon here tonight. They are one of the evolutions that are coming about with our western civilization, to be checked at certain places, to be sure. Some of these great things are liable to fail, and you have got so much water in them that I fear when they do fall about all the stockholders will have in them will be their riparian rights.

MANAGER SHOOTS THREE ACTORS

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25.—Joseph Monger, manager of a theatrical company playing "Marked For Life" at a local theater, shot three members of the company after the performance last night, none however, being seriously wounded.

Bert Haverly was shot on the chin, his wife received a flesh wound on the abdomen and Longfellow was shot on the hand.

Monger called all the members of the company into his room after the performance, stating he wished to make a settlement.

Leaving the room a moment, Monger returned with two revolvers and fired ten shots before he was overpowered by the stake manager.

All the members of the company declare Monger has been acting queerly for a week. He is believed to be demented.

The company played in St. Louis last week.

MURDERER DANCED LAST HOURS AWAY

LANDER, Wyo., Sept. 25.—James Keffer, who was hanged at 10 o'clock this morning, for the murder of A. C. Warren, spent his last evening on earth in riotous revelry.

Keffer had been on the verge of collapse all day, but last evening he suddenly braced up and requested that Jim Dollard, another prisoner charged with murder, be permitted to play a mouth harp that he might dance and sing to pass away the time.

The request was granted, and for several hours Keffer danced and sang to his heart's content.

Finally, tiring of this, he engaged the death watch and prisoners in story-telling until far into the night.

His bravado passed away, however, when he started on the march to the scaffold, and officers had to support the trembling wretch while the noose was adjusted.

SCALP HUMOURS

Itching, Scaly and Crusted With Loss of Hair

Speedily Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment

When Every Other Remedy and Physicians Fail.

Warm shampoos with Cuticura Soap and light dressings of Cuticura, the great skin cure, at once stop falling hair, remove crusts, scales and dandruff, soothe irritated, itching surfaces, destroy hair parasites, stimulate the hair follicles, loosen the scalp skin, supply the roots with energy and nourishment, and make the hair grow upon a sweet, healthy scalp when all else fails.

Millions of the world's best people use Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings and chafings, for annoying irritations and inflammations, or too free or offensive perspiration, for ulcerative weaknesses, and many antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, as well as for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery.

Complete treatment for every humour, consisting of Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the skin, Cuticura Ointment, to heal the skin, and Cuticura Resolvent, to cool and cleanse the blood may now be had for one dollar. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning and scaly humours, eczemas, rashes and irritations, from infancy to age, when all else fails.

DEADWOOD DICK TO RESUME TRADE

Famous Scout and Bandit May Be Appointed Guard on Express Train.

TERROR TO ALL "BAD MEN."

After the Red Border Days He Quit Man Hunting and Wore Plain Clothes.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

DEADWOOD, S. D., Sept. 25.—The announcement that "Deadwood Dick" is to be tendered a position with one of the big express companies as guard on trans-continental trains has served to call public attention once more to the famous scout, bandit hunter and leader of "the shotgun men" who guarded the Wells-Fargo express treasure from the Black Hills to civilization a quarter of a century or so ago.

"Yes, it's true that I've been talked about for such a job," said Dick, "but I don't know what will come of it. If I do get appointed, however, you may be sure that I shall try to do my duty as faithfully as I did it 25 years ago. I suppose even the hold-up men of this day know who I am and would stand in somewhat more fear of me than they would of some green hand at the business. I am not as young as I was a quarter of a century ago, but I reckon I could stand off a few bandits yet if my shooting irons worked all right."

Many Think He Is Dead.

No doubt thousands who are familiar with his early career on the frontier believe "Deadwood Dick" dead, and thousands of others think there never was such a character outside a yellow-back novel. But if anyone has a doubt on either of these points he may dispel it by going to Lead, a mining town five miles north of Deadwood, where Dick works in the yards of the Elkhorn Railroad.

After the red border days Dick laid aside his rifle, his brace of pistols and his sheepskin suit, and, donning the garb of civilization, engaged in railroad work. He is known now as "Dick Clark," rather than as "Deadwood Dick," and to see him in his blue working suit the stranger never would suspect that he used to be the terror of all the "bad men" in the Black Hills. He is now a middle-aged man of the medium height, with brown beard and hair, clear gray eyes and a pleasing smile.

Speaking of the shotgun men, he said: "There were just nine of us in the shotgun brigade, but I reckon we could lick any 18 men on the face of the earth if given any kind of a show. We carried short breech-loading shotguns and always went loaded with slugs. We guaranteed the Wells-Fargo treasure coach from Deadwood to Sidney, 200 miles away, to which the railroad then extended."

"Did you ever lose your treasure?"

"No. The road agents held us up, or tried to hold us up, twice. We managed to kill all but two of them, and those two were sent to the penitentiary for a long term of years as soon as they had sufficiently recoverd from the wounds we gave them to stand trial."

Robbers Took the Hint.

"We had a reputation of shooting pretty straight, and after those two scrimmages the conch could go anywhere in this country without molestation. The road agents seemed instinctively to recognize the rattle of its wheels and never came near it. But we had many a brush with the Indians and many a narrow escape."

"Do you mind telling me how you got the name of 'Deadwood Dick?'"

"Not at all. The boys either named me for the town of Deadwood or the town of Deadwood for me. I really never knew which. You see, the town and I arrived at about the same time. I was present at the laying out of Deadwood and drew chances for town lots. I drew one lot 'way up on the top of a little mountain and had to use a ladder to get there.'

"What were you called before they dubbed you 'Deadwood Dick?'"

'My first name in the hills was 'Wild Dick.' That name was given to me by 'California Joe.' I was over at Custer City, the first town that sprang up in the hills. The Indians were running off with our horses. I picked up my pistols and set out after the red devils. I could run faster than the other boys and soon left them behind. 'California Joe' called out, 'See that wild cuss run!' After that they called me 'Wild Dick,' and that name clung to me until two years later, when Deadwood was born, and then they called me 'Deadwood Dick.'"

"Is your real name Dick Clark?"

"None of the names I am called by is my real one. Nobody in these parts knows my real name nor where I came from nor who I was afore I struck the hills, and I don't think I'll ever enlighten 'em on the subject. It's enough that they know who I am since I came here. They all know that, I reckon."

LONG JAUNT TO SEE GARBAGE

Washington and Montreal Will Be Visited by Municipal Reduction Commission.

The commission which will inspect the methods employed by other critics in getting rid of their garbage has decided to start on its tour of inspection on Oct. 11, going first to Louisville and thence to Washington, New York, Montreal and Minneapolis.

The commission began its work by inspecting the St. Louis plant, and making a study of the system employed here. The method of reducing the garbage, producing fertilizer and grease and destroying the odors was examined. A visit was also made to the plant of an East Side packing company.

The commission is composed of the Board of Public Improvements and the House and Council sanitary committees. Waller Edwards, secretary of the Board of Public Improvements, will accompany the commission.

THOMAS GILL IS ENTERTAINED.

Thomas A. Gill of Dublin, secretary of agriculture for Ireland and former member of the British Parliament, was the guest of honor at a reception given by the Irish Society of St. Louis at the Planters' Hotel last night. After the banquet Mr. Gill discussed the Irish exhibit at the World's Fair, urging that in the exhibit nothing be done to give offense to the British people.

Those present were: M. Shaughnessy, Thomas F. Hanley, Archbishop John J. Glennon, James A. Reardon, Thomas A. Gill, Rev. C. F. O'Leary, Dr. J. J. Kane, P. J. O'Brien, Joseph McDonnell, M. M. Price on Murderous Bandits.

The Spanish Lake Protective Association has offered a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Julius Kohlman, who was killed Aug. 9 in his saloon by one of two men supposed to be highwaymen. Gov. Dockery will be asked to offer a reward. The St. Louis County Court has already offered $100 reward.

SURGEON FELL DEAD DURING OPERATION

EMPORIA, Kan., Sept. 25.—Dr. Charles Gardiner, one of the best known and most successful physicians in the West, dropped dead from heart failure while performing an operation at the house of a patient.

He had just performed the operation and was in the act of applying medicines to stop the flow of blood when he was seen to turn pale and stagger from the room to an adjoining one, in which he fell to the floor, dead.

In the meantime, the patient was steadily bleeding. Other medical assistance was summoned.

Dr. Gardiner had no one with him because of the light character of the operation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Harry Lehr's latest freak is to have as guests of honor at a reception to the "Four Hundred" at the Waldorf, Chief Joseph and his crowd of Indians, whose chief claim to fame is their murder of American pioneers and American soldiers.

The gold and silver drawing-room of the Waldorf-Astoria was the scene of this strange spectacle.

The affair was arranged by Harry Lehr and his wife, for the benefit of their friends, but it caused no end of commotion in the big hotel, and from one end to the other the guests gathered.

They crowded the drawing-room and swarmed all over the hall to get a glimpse of the Indians.

The Indians were lionized the entire evening. Chief Joseph, the leader of the band, was the especial pet of the women. Despite his 80 years, he is straight as an arrow.

He was at his best, having been told that he was to meet some of the "grandest ladies in all New York."

He wore the distinguishing marks of his rank in his cheeks—six blue spots on each side—added an extra dab of yellow to his chin and heightened the crimson at his temples. He crowded all the extra feathers that were available into his headdress and set the fashion for the Waldorf with his broad flannel shirt flapping over his breeches.

The Indians were toasted in a cup of tea, and after their final salutations were permitted to depart.

They did not leave the room, however, until after they shed nearly all the feathers that had decorated their clothes when they entered. And each of the women who could get anywhere near them went off flourishing a souvenir.

Before they left the hotel the Indians were escorted on an inspection tour through the hotel. They all made a bee line for the barroom the instant they left the reception upstairs, and the old chief "threw in" a couple of high balls to bring back his exhausted strength.

He felt in fine fettle after that and tried to sing "Hiawatha" on the way back to the garden.

The Indians have two more engagements to fill on Fifth avenue in the next few days.

They have been invited for tonight to the home of a prominent millionaire whose name was not divulged.

Queen of Ball Chosen.

Miss Mamie O'Laughlin has been chosen as queen of the annual dress ball which will be given by St. Patrick's Council, Knights of Father Mathew, at Pickwick Hall, Oct. 17. The contest for queen of the ball was a spirited one.

MILLIONAIRE WEDS HIS MILL EMPLOYE

Then Aged Bridegroom Celebrates With Reception to Young Bride's Factory Associates.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TROY, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Thomas Breslin, millionaire and former part owner of a hotel in New York City, returned to his home at Waterford today and introduced Miss Helen Watson of Bennington, Vt., as his bride.

The marriage caused surprise, not alone because of the age of the groom, who is 69, and the youth of the bride, who is 26, but because Miss Watson was formerly employed in Mr. Breslin's knitting mill at Waterford.

The Breslin-Watson wedding took place Wednesday morning at the Church of St. Francis de Salles.

The first known of the marriage here was when Mr. Breslin returned and announced that he would give a reception last evening at his house to the employes of the Waterford knitting mill in honor of the new wife.

The guests were 120 young men and women employed in the various departments of the mill.

Grandjury Resumes Work.

Saturday will be the last day of the summer vacation of the grandjury, and Monday morning it is expected to resume its investigation of boodle cases in St. Louis. More than 100 other matters of routine character are awaiting the grandjury's attention. It is expected that the final report will be made to Judge Douglas Oct. 3. The new grandjury will be impaneled Oct. 5.

YUUNG WOMEN FIGHT MEN IN CLASS RIOT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 25.—Four young women, sophomores at Cleveland Medical College, led their class in a victorious defense of their colors today, and, though one of them was roughly handled, they held their own.

The sophomores hoisted their class colors, and immediately warlike preparations began. This morning every freshman was secured as soon as he made his appearance. Eight had been bound before there was a clash.

The contending forces met at the college doors, there being 20 in each class. In the meantime the freshman had been liberated by some of the seniors, and one of these attacked Miss Lora Horn of Michigan.

She fought desperately until both sleeves had been torn from her dress, but did not give up. Three other women students went to her relief, and, among them, they got the freshman on his back and sat upon his prostrate body.

Then Miss Horn donned a knit jacket and once more joined in the fray. The freshmen were driven off and the sophomores were proud of the fact that they had the assistance of the women, declaring that they could not have won without them. Hostilities terminated at sundown, with the sophomore flags still flying at full mast.

Brake Handle Breaks Teeth.

Dennis McAvey, motorman of Tower Grove car, wound his brake chain so tightly that in releasing it the handle flew up, struck him in the mouth and knocked out several teeth. He completed his run, and after he had reached the sheds and made his report went to his home at 12 South Compton avenue.

Famous Clothes You Fashionably, Better and for Less Money Than Others Must Ask

Here are the reasons why:—we are the largest buyers in the United States of Men's, Youths' and Boys' ready-to-wear apparel. The tremendous volume of clothing sold in our three stores, The May Co., Cleveland; The May Co., Denver, and Famous warrants us in consummating deals vastly greater than can be attempted by any other firm in this country. THE RESULT is that a great percentage is saved by this wonderful purchasing power, the benefit of which goes direct to our patrons. This is one reason why we DO undersell and why our clothing business is growing greater year by year. We are extremely particular that every garment that leaves this store must be right in every way—quality, style and fit. We handle exclusively for the city of St. Louis the makes of five distinct leading clothing manufacturers of New York and Rochester, whose productions are equal to high-class custom work. Besides these important benefits, the stocks we carry are three times larger than shown by any other St. Louis store, thus making selections easier and better. We call attention to some notable values for tomorrow and whether you intend to purchase or not we ask an inspection. No one is importuned to buy here—we deem it a pleasure to show you through. Remember in every instance purchases made in our Clothing Department as in every other department of this store must be entirely satisfactory or your money back.

VETERAN ENGINEER DIES AT HIS POST

Heroism of James Wills Saves Passenger Train and Costs His Own Life.

PRIEST AIDS WRECK RELIEF

Spreading Rail Blockades Freight Cars and Places Obstruction Without Warning Before Express.

That only one life was lost and but three persons slightly injured in a wreck on the Missouri Pacific, just inside the city limits, was due to the heroism of the man whose life was lost—James Wills, the veteran engineer of the passenger train.

A spreading rail caused the wreck. A freight train, coming in on the eastbound track at 25 miles an hour, hit the weak rail. The engine ran into the embankment on the north side of the track, and the following cars were skewed around so that they blocked the westbound track.

Into this blockade of freight cars, Engineer Wills' train ran. It was the Omaha limited, which left Union Station at 8:20 Thursday night. It had gone through the yards at a moderate speed, and after stopping at Tower Grove station, had received a "clear track" signal from the World's Fair station tower and got well under way.

At almost the moment when the "clear track" signal was given to the passenger train, the accident to the freight train occurred. William McClure, a brakeman on the freight, ran east in an effort to flag the passenger as soon as he could extricate himself from the wreck, but had gone only a block when he met the coming train, going at a 25-mile speed. He waved his lantern and the engine crew realized the danger.

Wills cried to his fireman to jump, and at the same time applied the airbrake to his train. His speed was such, however, that he could not reduce it by more than half, and his engine crashed into the freight cars.

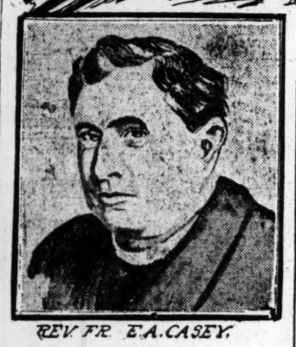

The cars were splintered, and the passenger engine overturned, with Wills beneath it. He was lifted out of the ruined cab after an hour's work by W. W. Dougherty, his fireman, Father Edmund A. Casey of St. James' Catholic church, Patrolman Lavin of the mounted district, and passengers and members of the freight crew. Among whom was Judge James Robinson, chief of the supreme court of Missouri, who was on his way to Jefferson City.

At the Missouri Pacific Hospital the injured engineer was attended by his son, Dr. William J. Wills, one of the company's staff physicians. He died two hours and a half after the accident. His body will be taken to his home at Sedalia, Mo., for burial. Dr. Wills went to Sedalia on an early train Friday.

None of the passengers was hurt, although they were jarred and tumbled out of their seats by the sudden stop and by the shock of the collision. Fireman Dougherty of the passenger train, living at 628 South Ewing avenue; C. E. Dillon, fireman, and James Brown, engineer of the freight, were bruised.

ENGINEER SAVES TRAIN AND LOSES LIFE; PRIEST AIDS IN WRRECK RESCUE WORK

BANKER'S SON DISAPPEARS

"I am Unworthy," He Wrote to Father After Deserting Wife and Three Children.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Sept. 25.—Banker William Wallace is exerting every influence to discover the whereabouts of his missing son, James.

The younger Wallace disappeared Sunday evening without taking leave of his young wife and three children. Monday, at the bank, the father received a note by mail bidding him to be reconciled to the unceremonious departure.

"I am unworthy," read the missive. "It will be better for everybody if no effort is made to find me."

An explanation cannot be imagined for the young man's disappearance. He was a clubman of enviable standing, socially and financially. He was an ardent yachtsman, had an established business and one of the handsomest homes in the city.

POLICE SMELL CHEESE AFAR

Stolen Limburger Leaves Trail of Fragrance Which Leads to Arrest of George Smith.

As Mr. Smith was hurrying on
Before the early morning breeze—
It being just before the dawn—
He thought that he was "all the cheese."
But when the cops arrested him
And he could furnish no defense,
Poor Smithy's looks were very grim:
In fact, he felt like thirty cents.

The scent of limburger that clung to George Smith of 1106 Hickory street led to his arrest and incarceration in the Central district holdover.

Smith was passing West Jefferson avenue and Papin street when Patrolmen Kennedy and Leahy noticed a disturbance in the atmosphere. Their unfailing scent led them to suspect Smith. They found a quantity of limburger cheese, three bottles of wine, a big beefsteak and some breakfast bacon concealed under his overcoat. His explanation how he got the articles did not satisfy the policemen and they arrested him.

FOUND THE WORLD TOO BIG

Remembrance of Good Things to Eat at Home Brings Runaway Boys to Their Parents.

A boy of 14 is a very small thing in a very big world. This is the conclusion reached by Howard Gunn, 4619 Cook avenue; Harry Roche, 4141 Page boulevard; Chester Smith, 4202 Page boulevard, and Robert Adams, 4067 Page boulevard, each of whom rang the front doorbell of their homes at 10 o'clock Thursday night. They had returned from their runaway journey with many adventures undone.

They left home last Tuesday night and got as far as Ferguson. From there they ventured further after Robert Adams had written to his father that they were bound for Montgomery City. Mr. M. A. Gunn, father of one of the boys, started at once on their trail, but came back Friday when he was notified of the return of the boys.

The boys are very reticent as to their experiences, but say that all the while they were gone they lived in fear of policemen.

Going to Alton they wandered around the streets, but the newspapers reached there before them, and they were stopped by a policeman. They gave assumed names and he let them go, but they left town because they feared he would arrest them. Then they went to Venice and other East Side towns, and found themselves in East St. Louis Thursday night with only enough money to get them home or eat. They were very hungry, but if they ate they would have to walk home. At home there was plenty to eat and a good bed and a mother's love and—well, they did what any other decent boy would do—they went home. To their parents they returned a unanimous report that running away from home is enjoyable only in anticipation, with a warning clause to other boys that home is the best place in the world, after the precarious life of the road.

APPENDICITIS FROM BITING MUSTACHE

Doctors Found Hair in a Patient's Diseased Appendix While Performing Operation.

SIOUX CITY, Io., Sept. 25.—J. J. Snyder, a cigarmaker of this city, has had an attack of appendicitis due to a biting of his mustache and swallowing the hair.

Snyder was removed to the hospital and an operation performed. The surgeons found in the appendix a number of hairs which matched the patient's mustache, but were different from the hairs on his head. These were pronounced the direct cause of the attack.

After recovering consciousness, Snyder acknowledged he had a habit of continually biting the ends of his mustache.

WILL WAGE WAR ON ALL EVIL

W. C. T. U. Delegates and Officers Plan for Active Campaign Next Year.

The necessity for increased activity by workers for temperance and purity was urged by several of the speakers at Friday's session of the W. C. T. U. district convention, meeting at Centenary Church.

Mrs. Ingalls, president of the society, pointed out the necessity for harder work next year than ever before, as did Mrs. M. E. Otto, in charge of the rescue home work, and Miss Bessie Morse, who is prominent in the crusade against cigarettes.

Mrs. Ingalls, president, was detained by the illness of her husband and was late in reaching the hall. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Wagoner. Experiences in home work were told of by many of the women, among them being Mrs. Brittain of Washington, D. C., who told of the expectations of World's Fair work.

Mrs. Griffen warned the women that they were living too much in the future, and warned them against unnecessary impatience.

Mrs. Crow of Providence, R. I., told of work among soldiers and in reform schools.

Miss Morse, discussing cigarettes, said they were the cause of many cases of suicide among boys and young men. She also cited instances to show that they were the cause of mental dullness.

Mrs. Otto declared that social conditions in St. Louis are appalling, and called a mass meeting to be held at Pilgrim Congregational Church, Twenty-ninth street and Washington avenue, at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, to take action regarding a reported concerted movement by certain interests, backed by a fund of $100,000, to import objectionable persons into the city during the World's Fair period.

Among those who read papers at the morning session were Mrs. S. S. Robb, Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Oliver and Mrs. Stangs.

ST. LOUIS NOISE ANNOYS GOTHAMITE

Walter Travis, America's Champion Golfer, Fresh From New York, Says He Cannot Sleep Here.

ON BUSINESS AND PLEASURE

He Is the Guest of the Glen Echo Club and Will Play Fourball Foursome With Local Experts.

Walter J. Travis of New York, America's champion golf player, is in St. Louis on his first visit to the World's Fair City. He will remain until Monday.

Mr. Travis is on a business trip, but he will have time to show the St. Louis devotees of the Scotch game hom a champion drives, putts and approaches.

This afternoon he plays with Col. George S. McGrew as his partner, a fourball foursome at the Glen Echo Club, Jesse Carleton and J. T. Watson being scheduled to oppose them.

When Mr. Travis appeared in the lobby of the Planters' Friday morning he and his business associates inquired if there was not a family hotel somewhere near. They said the street cars made so much noise they could not sleep well during the night.

Mr. Travis soon forgot his hotel troubles when a committee from the Glen Echo Club appeared and took him for a drive through the West End and the World's Fair grounds. They went to Glen Echo for lunch.

Mr. Travis is a quiet, serious-looking man, whose dark hair is slightly streaked with gray. He wore a light suit and black derby Friday morning, and smoked a bulldog pipe.

"I have never had the pleasure of playing against any of the St. Louis men," said Mr. Travis to the Post-Dispatch. "I understand Mr. Stickney is a very good player. Then there is a Mr. McKittrick, I believe, who plays quite well.

Champion Comes for Business, Not Sport.

"I see Col. McGrew has arranged a schedule for me to play and St. Louisans, I fear, may infer from that that I came out here just to play golf. Instead I am here on a business trip and hope to do some work for my firm while I am here.

"Of course, I am deeply interested in golf, as all true lovers of the game are, and I am glad to say that more persons are playing the game every year.

"In the East new golf clubs are being organized with gratifying regularity.

"At that, however, there is a limit to the extent that golf will spread. It can never be generally popular, in the ordinary meaning of the word, like baseball, for instance.

"It requires considerable leisure time to play golf well and it requires grounds that are expensive to maintain.

"But there is no danger of the interest in golf dying out. In the East it is played largely by middle-aged men. As long as that condition continues the future of golf is more than hopeful."

Concerning the world's championship golf tournament which Col. McGrew has planned for the Glen Echo Club next summer, Mr. Travis said it would be a good thing for St. Louis if the world's championship and the national championship could be held here at the same time. The place for holding the national championship will be decided next February by the United States Golf Association.

Tomorrow afternoon Mr. Travis and A. B. Lambert, who has the distinction of having been champion of France, will play a foursome with Stewart Stickney and Fred Semple. On Sunday afternoon, Mr. Travis and A. C. Vickery will play J. S. Lowry and F. M. Canter.

TURKEY WANTS OUR SHIPS TO WITHDRAW

"So That Settlement of Pending Questions Can Be Proceeded With."

WILL THE PRESIDENT CONSENT

Constantinople Officials Take More Hopeful View of Balkan Troubles.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 24.—The porte has expressed a wish for the withdrawal of the American warships now off Beirut, "so that the settlement of the questions pending between the United States and Turkey can be proceeded with."

It is thought here that the United States will not consent to withdraw her ships. Minister Leishman has arranged for a conference with the foreign minister, Tewfik Pasha, today.

Official circles take a calmer view of the Balkan situation, and advices from Bulgaria point to a relaxation of the tension.

NO HITCH HAS OCCURRED IN THE NEGOTIATIONS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The state department had no fresh news from Minister Leishman today. The American minister has had several conferences with Tewfik Pasha, the Turkish foreign minister, concerning the settlement of the Mageissen affair and the American claims against the Sultan's government. While definite conclusions have not been reported, no hitch has occurred in the negotiations. On the ground that all is now quiet at Beirut, it is not unlikely that the porte is pressing for the withdrawal of the American ships, but no direct request in that nature has been preferred to the authorities here.

INTERCESSION SERVICE FOR MACEDONIA.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—At an intercession service in behalf of the people of Macedonia, held in one of the city churches today, Canon Maccoll described the Macedonians as laboring under disabilities rendering them practically outlaws deprived of the elementary rights of humanity. "Germany, Austria and Russia," he said, "are giving a free hand to the Sultan because they have agreed to the partition of Turkey in Europe. Austria is to have a protectorate over Servia, with half of Macedonia, down to Salonica. Russia will get the other half of Macedonia, with a protectorate over Bulgaria, while Germany will get a slice of Asiatic Turkey and the port of Salonica. When all the Christians have been massacred this triumvirate will establish a commercial zollverein and keep out British trade."

ADLAI STEVENSON ON MOBS.

They Sap the Foundation of Organized Society, He Says.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Sept. 25.—Former Vice-President Adlai E. Stevenson today denounced mobs in an address at the dedication of the new courthouse for McLean County. Mr. Stevenson said:

"Mob spirit is in deadly antagonism to all constituted authority. Unless it is curbed it will sap the foundation of organized society.

"The killing of a human creature is no less murder when it is the act of a mob than when it is the act of an individual.

"There is no safety to society but in an aroused public sentiment that will hold each participant amenable to law for the consequences of crime either perpetrated or abetted."

CHIEF'S MESSENGER IS FINED

With Three Companions Young Man Employed at Police Headquarters Defied a Patrolman.

In the Dayton street police court Friday Thomas E. McNulty, Joseph Toberman, Charles Gueck and Herman Muggenberg were fined $5 each for refusing to "move on" when Policeman John Collier ordered them to do so.

McNulty is chief messenger in the office of Chief of Police Kiely, and Collier and three witnesses testified that he threatened to "fix" the policeman for ordering him to move.

The four young men were standing with five others at Jefferson avenue and Dayton street when Collier and Policeman Casey alighted from a street car and ordered all to "move on." Five left, but the other four, on the advice of McNulty, "stuck." They were arrested.

It developed that McNulty and Collier had a quarrel about a year ago, and each accuses the other of cherishing ill feeling from that date.

STUDENTS' BARRACKS AT FAIR

Large Ground Will Be Set Apart for Camp of Cadets From Military Schools.

To accommodate the great number of cadets in military schools who will come in companies to the World's Fair, the directors will probably find it necessary to provide barracks.

Some time ago Col. Culp, master of ceremonies of the World's Fair, wrote to Charles W. Dabney, president of the State University of Tennessee, suggesting that the cadet corps of the college come to the World's Fair, President Dabney replied that not only would the cadets come, but 2000 pupils of the university and summer schools desired to attend the World's Fair in a body if arrangements could be made for a camp.

Friday Col. Culp also received requests for camp accommodations from the officers of the Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., with 225 pupils, who desire to come to St. Louis May 10 and camp for ten days, and the West Texas Military Academy of San Antonio.

Col. Culp took the matter up with Secretary Stevens, who said the exposition company has 175 acres of ground south of the Philippine reservation, which is intended for a camp ground or a barracks location.

WILL GO TO JUVENILE COURT.

Boy Looters of Slot Machines Treated With Lenience.

Rudolph Grossman and his five companions, who were arrested Thursday for stealing pennies from slot machines, were arraigned in the court of criminal correction Friday morning on the charge of larceny.

Because of their ages they were bound over to the probation officer, and are held in the detention room at the Four Courts pending their hearing in the juvenile court.

MRS. JEFFERSON DAVIS SLIGHTLY IMPROVED

MRS. JEFFERSON DAVIS.

Widow of the Chieftain of the Southern Confederacy Critically Ill at Castle Inn in Buffalo—Party of Friends With Her

BUFFALO, Sept. 25.—This morning it was reported that Mrs. Davis was still in a critical condition, but somewhat improved. Dr. Stockton said:

"Mrs. Davis' condition is very serious."

The doctors decline to give out a statement regarding the nature of Mrs. Davis' illness. A report that she was suffering from acute indigestion was denied, but no further information could be obtained.

Mrs. Davis came to Castle Inn from Port Colborne, Ont., where she had been spending the summer. A party of friends accompanied her, 20 in all, one of whom is her granddaughter, Miss Lucy W. Hayes of Colorado Springs.

It has been Mrs. Davis' custom to spend her summers in Canada, or a northern resort, living in New York city during the winter months. Her first visit to Canada was made shortly after the close of the civil war, when she and her husband spent some time in Toronto. Since then the sojourn in Canada has been a frequent occurrence.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis is 77 years old. She was born in Natchez, Miss., May 7, 1826. She is the daughter of William Burr and granddaughter of Gov. Richard Howell of New Jersey. Mrs. Davis was educated in Philadelphia and by private teachers. She was married to Jefferson Davis, Feb. 25, 1845. After the fall of the Confederacy she acted as her husband's stenographer when he wrote "The Rise and Fall of the Confederate Government."

Since her husband's death, in 1889, she has written numerous criticisms and articles for newspapers and magazines. Mrs. Davis owns property in Mississippi, but, on account of poor health, for some time has lived in New York City.

LEAPED FOR LIFE IN BURNING HOTEL

Two Persons Killed and Four Injured in a New Hampshire Town.

GUESTS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

One Man Sprang From Window and Landed on Trolley Wires.

ROCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 25.—Two lives were lost and several persons were injured in a fire that destroyed the Hotel Brunswick early today. The dead:

GEORGE HARWOOD, Concord, N. H.
MRS. GEORGE HARWOOD, his wife.

The injured:

George McHugh, back sprained.
Will McHugh, injury to legs.
C. W. Paige, proprietor of the hotel; burned about head.
Mrs. C. W. Paige, slight injuries and shock.

Mr. and Mrs. Harwood occupied a room on the second floor and were found in a corridor, where they had met death while attempting to escape from the flames.

The two McHughs jumped from the second-story window and landed on the roof of an adjoining building. An unknown man jumped from a third-story window and landed on the wires of the street railway where they hung many narrow escapes, and it was at first believed that a number of persons had perished in the building.

The monetary loss is about $14,000.

THINKS HE IS CHARLES ROSS

Galveston Man Was Put in Orphan Asylum Year Boy He Resembles Disappeared.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Claude J. Nels of this city has a letter from William Van Hodge of Galveston, Tex., stating that he has been told by one who knows the Ross family that he looks very much like that family, and Mr Van Hodge thinks he may be the missing Charlie Ross.

He was placed in an orphan asylum in New Orleans in 1874, the year the Ross child disappeared.

Mr. Van Hodge states that he was placed in the asylum in a mysterious manner and, despite diligent inquiry, could never ascertain the names of his relatives nor where he came from.

He was told that his name was William Van Hodge, but that was all. His present address is 3711 Ball avenue, Galveston.

He is said to be a well-to-do business man and is married and has a family.

KANSAS CITY AS SCAPEGOAT.

Chicago Canal Defenders Say Missouri River Water Is Impure.

The sanitary canal board of Chicago has shown that it will seek to establish the culpability of Kansas City and the Missouri river in the contamination of the water supply of St. Louis, and in this way defeat the application for an injunction filed by the state of Missouri against the state of Illinois.

At the hearing before a federal commissioner, in Chicago, witnesses for the canal testified that they had found polluted water in both the Kaw and Missouri rivers. Attorneys for Missouri contend that the chlorine found in the Missouri river is brought down from the salt fields above Kansas City and is not due to pollution.

Prof. Long for the canal company said his analyses showed great improvement in the sanitary condition of the Illinois river since the opening of the canal.

CLERGUE WORKS 20 HOURS A DAY TO SAVE THE SOO

NEARLY TWO HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS INVOLVED

Story of the Origin, the Rise and Fall of This Stupendous Enterprise—How It Was Operated, Its Purpose and Its Great Expectations.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Francis H. Clergue, one of the chief promoters of the $117,000,000 Consolidated Lake Superior Co., has arrived here from Toronto, accompanied by Cornelius Shields, president of the company, and A. R. Harvey of Liverpool, one of the largest stockholders.

The three went to an up-town hotel and immediately began a series of conferences with bankers and others which lasted many hours in the hope of securing aid to avert the impending sale of the property by Speyer & Co.

At the close of these conferences, Mr. Harvey declared that prospects are bright for saving the great corporation to the stockholders under the present management.

"Mr. Clergue is working about 20 hours a day to save this company, and I believe he will do it," said Mr. Harvey. "He is not to blame for the fact that affairs are in the present shape. He had assurances last April, which he received in my presence, that the loans would be met, but you know what has happened since then.

"The vast shrinkage in the values of securities has made it impossible for men to carry out promises which were made in good faith at that time.

"The banks here show a disposition to help the company, with the exception of certain interests, which, I take it, would like to acquire the property for a small fraction of its value.

"English money will save this company to its stockholders, and complete the great works at Sault Ste. Marie.

"There will be a meeting of the board of directors in this city this evening. I feel sure that by this time the future of the company will have been definitely arranged, and that after the meeting Mr. Clergue will be able to make a public announcement of his plans for taking care of the loans and proceeding with the work of construction and development."

RISE AND FALL OF THE SOO ENTERPRISE.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—The Consolidated Lake Superior Co. is a holding company controlling a large number of concerns at or near Sault Ste. Marie. It was organized under the laws of Connecticut and has an authorized capitalization of $117,000,000, of which $102,000,000 has been issued. The principal stockholders are Philadelphians and it is estimated that about $70,000,000 of the stock is held here.

The company operates the Hein ore mines on the Michipicoten range, iron and steel mills, veneer mill, pulp mill, a sawmill and the ferry-nickel reduction plant at the "Soo," a street railway on both sides of the "Soo," a ferry across Ste. Marie river, the Grace gold mine, nickel mines in the Sudbury district of Ontario, car shops under the name of Algoma Commercial Co., limited, and also owns the following companies: Algoma Central Steamship Co., Algoma Central & Hudson Bay Railway, Manitoulin & North Shore Railway, British American Express Co., Michigan-Lake Superior Power Co., Lake Superior Power Co., Ontario-Lake Superior Co. and Tagona Water and Light Co.

The troubles of the company became public matter last December, when it was learned that the concern was trying to secure a loan to carry on its operations. It was maintained by the management that the business of the company was profitable but that money was needed to carry on the operation of various plants and to make improvements. After considerable effort a loan of $5,500,000 was negotiated with Speyer & Co. of New York. For this loan Speyer & Co. took as security all of the available collateral possessed by the Consolidated Lace Superior Co. This collateral consisted of all the stock of the various subsidiary plants, and also the bonds that had been placed upon them. The loan and at the time the loan was closed the companies whose stock were pledged to the bankers are as follows: Consolidated Lake Superior Power Co., $2,[illegible]00; Michigan Lake Superior Power Co., $500,000; Sault Ste Marie Pulp & Paper Co., $2,000,000; Tagona Water & Light Co., $200,000; Algoma Central Railway, $10,000,000; Manitoulin & North Shore Railway, $1,000,000; International Transit Co., $150,000; Trans Ste Marie Transportation Co., $400,000; Algoma Commercial Co., $10,000,000; Algoma Steel Co., $20,000,000; British-American Express Co., $100,000; Ontario, Lake Superior Co., $20,000,000. The loan expired on July 1, but an extension of time was allowed in order to give the officers of the company an opportunity to raise money from the stockholders. A plan was formulated to sell bonds sufficient to raise $5,500,000 in cash. Only a quarter of the bonds were subscribed for, the plan was declared a failure and the money advanced was refunded. It was then decided to reorganize the company, assess each share of preferred and common stock $8, and the common stockholders were to receive one share in a new corporation for every five they held in the old, and the holders of preferred one share for every two and a half they held in the old.

In the meantime complaining stockholders wanted certain information regarding the management of the company, and they went so far as to threaten legal proceedings. This was followed by a movement for a receiver.

Recently matters reached such a stage that President Shields of the company issued an order shutting down all the company plants at the Soo with the exception of the street car lines. This action threw out of employment about 8500 men. It is said that about $300,000 in

NORTHERN SECURITIES APPEAL PETITION

Claim Set Up That the Court Erred in Many Important Findings.

FILED WITH JUDGE LOCHREN

ST. PAUL, Sept. 25.—A petition for an order allowing an appeal in the case of the state of Minnesota against the Northern Securities Co. was filed with Judge Lochren of the United States Circuit Court for this district today.

The assignment of error filed with the petition in substance sets forth that the court erred in every finding in the decree which dismissed the complainant's bill of complaint. It is claimed that the court erred in holding that the agreement which resulted in the formation of the Northern Securities Co., with power to acquire a majority of the stock of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways is lawful and that the Northern Securities Co. was formed for a lawful purpose.

It is further alleged that the court erred in holding that the Northern Securities Co. is merely an investing stockholder in the stocks of the two railways named and that it is without power to interfere in the management or control of those roads; that the court erred in not finding that the Northern Securities Co. was formed for the express purpose of gaining control of the majority of the stock of those two railroads and their management.

It is further claimed that the court erred in failing to decide that the Securities Co. was organized with the intent of evading the laws of the State of Minnesota which prohibit such mergers as the Northern Securities Co., and that the court erred in ordering that the state was not entitled to any relief in the action brought to dissolve the merger. The assignment of error closes with a brief petition asking for a reversal of judgment in the case.

ROWDIES ROUT SALVATIONISTS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WHITESBURG, Ky., Sept. 25.—The Salvation Army cavalry corps, under Col. Richard Holtz of Cleveland and Maj. Hunter of Cincinnati met with a thrilling experience and one which they will not soon forget.

They came upon a country barbecue, where in a grove people were dancing and making merry. A large space had been cleaned off in an open spot, and in the center a country string band was furnishing music. On the outskirts men and boys were drinking hard cider from barrels. Many were drunk and the county officers could do nothing with them. The Salvationists were almost paralyzed. They had learned while here that Letcher County was one of the worst in the state, having had more feuds and more murders than any of its sister counties, and now the Salvationists saw a reason for the trouble.

It was some time before they could make up their minds what to do, but finally they opened services under a large oak tree by the roadside, and soon a crowd gathered.

While members of the corps were exhorting the people assembled, some drunken rowdies began firing off their revolvers near by and the crowd began to scatter. The shooting was so close that the Salvationists, fearing to continue their meeting, closed with prayer for the souls of the people and rode away, continuing their trip.

We are to have Macabebes, Ilocanos, Tagalogs and Visayans at the Exposition. No doubt some of them will be able to describe the water cure.

PEACE CONGRESS OF 1904.

Congress can hardly refuse to invite the International Peace Conference to hold its next meeting in America. And being in 1904 this means St. Louis.

This assembly, while possessing no legal authority to make good its resolves, is, by virtue of the high character of its membership, a powerful influence in molding the opinion of the world. It is composed of men of affairs, cabinet ministers, members of parliaments, journalists, lawyers, etc., all leading men in their several pursuits.

It is fitting that such a congress, devoted to the ends of peace, should assemble in the United States, whose government has been committed to peace since Washington's administration. And this fitness is emphasized by meeting in St. Louis when the greatest voluntary and peaceful transfer of territory recorded in history is celebrated.

The delegates will find arguments for peace in everything they see and in the conspicuous absence of much that they do not see. They will observe the orderly conduct of a nation of 80,000,000 souls without the compulsion of the military, and they will wonder how the prestige of such a nation can be maintained without garrisons of soldiers in every large town.

The cause of peace will be substantially advanced by the meeting of 1904 in such circumstances.

St. Louis has for years been situated opposite East St. Louis. Before that it was "near Alton." In future the city will not have to identify itself in the world of commerce.

A MODERN PORTIA.

The appointment of Miss Jessica Peixotto to a professorship in the department of political economy in the University of California makes a precedent.

Women have held professorships in American women's colleges, but never before have they been honored with chairs in men's or co-ed colleges.

Miss Peixotto was graduated from the New York State University and afterward studied in Paris. She is doctor of philosophy and of law.

In medieval times women were not unknown in such careers in the Italian universities. There are several notable instances. Portia was not a mere poet's fancy. She might have been a professor of jurisprudence in Padua. If she was not, some other woman had been, so that Shakspeare's fancy was perfectly well founded in fact.

The garbage commission is expected to report results in time to enable the city to protect itself against the Butler rab.

KELLY AND THE LAW SCHOOL.

[illegible] refusing Charles F. Kelly's application to matriculate [illegible] law school, Washington University recognizes a stand[illegible] professional ethics which is not always rigidly adhered [illegible] he profession itself.

[illegible] was convicted of an infamous crime, and although [illegible] not finally disposed of, and he may plausibly main[illegible] he deserves th[illegible] benefit of the uncertainty until it [illegible] against him, [illegible]'s severity is justified by all the circumstances.

Not only [illegible] convicted of boodling and sentenced to the penitentiary [illegible] drew upon himself further social censure for running away when he was wanted as a witness, thereby defeating the ends of justice in other cases and saving other men from prosecution. He trifled with justice and showed himself not subject to a very high conception of social order, which it is the special business of lawyers to understand and protect.

Of course a man should be "given a chance." And when he indicates a sincere desire to lead a useful life he should not be discouraged. But it is well that a profession which touches so intimately every concern of life in society should be held to the highest possible standard of moral excellence.

Mere words cannot remove the stain of boodling from the state legislature.

IMPETUOUS TED.

The Chicago Federation of Labor declares that it loves President Roosevelt for his impetuosity—yes, that is the word employed in the resolutions—and deplores the fact that this said impetuosity should have led him into "grievous error" in dealing with a certain phase of the labor question.

Webster defines impetuosity as "the state or quality of being impetuous," and impetuous he defines as "rushing with force and violence; furious; forcible; violent; vehement in feeling; hasty; passionate," and among the synonyms he mentions are "precipitate, raging and fierce."

[illegible] many other things, impetuosity is a good thing to have on hand at the proper time. It is like a barrel of gunpowder—all right in its place, but not to be rashly used. Impetuosity is to be expected of a soldier in battle, a lover, a fireman, a policeman chasing a burglar or of the hero of a melodrama who is on the point of rescuing the fair damsel from the wheels of the approaching train.

Impetuosity would be just the thing for the leader of a South American revolution or for an officer leading a cavalry charge, but is broncho-busting, tree-chopping under the limelight, midnight riding in the rain with a press agent at either end of the route, pistol-toting and other manifestations of an impetuous nature just exactly what the people of a great, enlightened and dignified republic admire in their chief executive?

Gov. Yates protests earnestly against mob law. The successful prosecution of the Danville rioters is a warning to would-be lynchers that they commit their outrages in that part of Illinois at their peril. The butt end of the law is the best remedy for lawlessness.

THE CHAMBERS STREET OUTRAGE.

On the face of the evidence the attack of three dog catchers on Mrs. Isley and her daughter on Chambers street is an outrage.

According to the testimony of the women the dog-catchers, in response to a protest against their conduct, knocked Mrs. Isley down, injured her hand and slapped her daughter. Not only should warrants be issued against the men, but they should be vigorously prosecuted. If the facts accord with the statements of the complainants they should be severely punished.

There have been too many complaints of the lawless brutality of dog catchers, who are officers of the law. Their treatment of dogs is a sufficient disgrace to our civilization, without applying it to human beings, and especially to helpless women.

Candidates who vociferate that "Missouri is all right" are missing the mark. Missouri is not all right while boodling goes unchecked and unpunished. It should be the object of every Missourian to make Missouri all right by giving his support to the war against boodle and boodleism.

A GREAT FINANCIAL OPERATION.

The wonderful story of the Consolidated Lake Superior Co., told in Wednesday's Post-Dispatch, illustrates modern "finance."

This concern was capitalized at $117,000,000. A year ago the stock was rated worth $30,000,000. Today the stuff can be had for about a million. How much the property of the concern is really worth is not known, but it is certainly not much.

The public was dazzled by big figures and the issue of paper which represents nothing but the impudence and assurance of the promoters. The inevitable collapse comes, as it must come sooner or later to all such bubbles, when it can't be blown any bigger.

But the public never learns. Wall street is full of get-rich-quick schemes, some of which are backed by men who ought to be in better business, and they do not lack support from investors, who seem willing to put their money into anything that makes a gorgeous promise.

Finance is an industry in itself. Capital—machinery, land, buildings, ore beds—all that makes up a plant—is not necessary. The only plant needed is the multiplication table and a few big words descriptive of the various classes of securities. With such an outfit any adventurer or visionary can make a fortune.

The police who are investigating the St. Joseph train robbery have information that Pat Crowe has been seen in the neighborhood. If this legendary personage has reappeared we may look for Robin Hood. With such characters to deal with a detective can do good work in his mind.

The national capital is to have a great union railway station which will vie with the stations at St. Louis and Boston. But our big station is not now big enough for St. Louis, and will have to be enlarged.

Surely it will be a double-barreled case of the Man on Horseback if we have to choose between Roosevelt and Miles in the presidential race next year.

Between this time and the last month of next year the man with rubber in his neck will find more in St. Louis to delight him than he could see anywhere else in the world.

A big blue automobile is now conveying beer in St. Louis and the beer wagon driver is elevated to the dignity of a chauffeur. The big blue beer auto has enormous rubber tires and it is rubbered by everybody on both sides of the street.

The idea of small flats for newly married people is absurd. Newly married people want a six-room flat at least, and they want it full of the finest attainable furniture. The young people of the twentieth century are not merely proud; they are often haughty.

THE FILIPINO'S VIEW.

Thirty-one Filipino bamboo-workers or carpenters have arrived in St. Louis to erect the buildings for the Filipino exhibit at the World's Fair.

I'm a Filipino rover
From the isles beyond the sea,
Where the earth is green all over
And the streams from ice are free.
Where the winds are ever spicy,
And it makes me grieve, I own,
Thus to shiver in the icy
Breezes of your temperate zone.

For this land of faery bound,
All the city was an arbor,
And it seemed enchanted ground.
Warm and lazy waters laving
Idle shores were bright and fair,
And the palm trees gently waving
Scarcely stirred the fragrant air.

All along the blue horizon
Fleecy clouds the while were seen,
Rich as laces that bedizen
And I sighed, how heavy-hearted!
And I wept, I freely own,
As from them I love I parted,
Through whose tears devotion shone.

Though upon the broad Pacific
I had launched for duty's sake,
I was moved by thoughts terrific,
And my bosom could but ache.
"Home," you say, "is where the heart is,"
And if pain must be confessed,
Think you not as strong the smart is
In a Filipino's breast?

Though with wonders you may daze me,
(I, whose hut is roofed with straw,)
And with marvels may amaze me
Till I'm stricken dumb with awe,
Not for all your wealth and power,
Not for all my eyes can see,
Would I barter for one hour
Joy that waits at home for me!

Our Poor Millionaires.

A millionaire in New York and a millionaire woman in San Francisco have committed suicide within a week; J. Pierpont Morgan is losing money and prestige every day; a bushel of diamonds belonging to John W. Gates have been stolen; Andrew Carnegie is suffering untold agonies because of his disgraceful wealth, John D. Rockefeller is still forced to live on crackers and milk, and it is rumored that "Baldy" Ryan has been ruled off the turf at Gravesend. Pity the poor millionaire!

The wife of a railway passenger conductor lost $2000 worth of diamonds at Hot Springs, Ark. The old rule that "all that sticks to the bell-cord belongs to the company; the rest is mine," is still in vogue in the South, it seems.

MISSOURI ODD FACTS.

At the request of two bachelor farmers a Knox County paper printed a paragraph Thursday instructing them how to sew on buttons.

"A belated passenger train pulled into our town the other day," writes the Altamont correspondent of the Gallatin North Missourian, "and had stopped to take coal when one of the passengers stuck his head out of a window and asked a native how many population the place had. The native answered very dolefully, 'They're all here on the platform; you can count them for yourself.'"

Uncle Matthew Mann of Gallatin was enjoying a quiet snooze the other day, with his hat over his face, when suddenly he grabbed the hat, waved it over his head, and yelled vociferously. The yell wakened him. His wife, who was sitting by, was startled by his demonstration until Uncle Matthe wexplained that he had dreamed Gen. Miles had been elected by the Democrats as President, and he was helping to ratify the result.

A Carthage physician tells the Press that he has under observation two cases of "chromidrosis," an odd disease of the sweat glands, which causes the patient to sweat a pink dye. "In these two cases," says the physician, "the sweat turns white goods a bright pink, which is indelible. All white goods except white silk that come in contact with the body are colored, and white handkerchiefs used to wipe the face turn to a pink immediately. Only 46 cases have been reported in the last 150 years. It does not appear to effect the general health, nor does it depend upon any special diseased condition.

"You insist that you don't want anything disturbed there," she responded meekly.

"Where shall I put them?" she inquired demurely as he took them up.

"Don't ask so many questions," he snapped. "Put them anywhere out of my sight."

"Very well, sir," she cooed as softly as a dove.

HOW THE STORK DISSOLVED PARTNERSHIP.

Prof. Slangley was a great inventor. That is, he was in his own opinion, and his opinions were thought by every one to be very valuable, and men paid him big money for them. It occurred to Prof. Slangley that he could make a machine that would both travel on earth and fly in the air. For the earthly travel his bicycle would do very well, but to get in the air—ah! that was the problem.

Mr. Stork Let Go.

He solved it, however, by entering into partnership with an old stork, who was to furnish the wing power.

"What are the terms?" questioned the stork.

"These," replied the professor; "when on the earth, you are to sit on the handle-bars of the machine and I do the work. When in the air, you are to grasp the handle-bars with both claws. I shall grasp your legs firmly and you will do the flying.

"It will be grand, magnificent," he pursued. "The world will wonder, and then praise; there will be great glory."

"But who gets the glory?" asked the stork, anxiously.

"O, we share that," said Slangley. But somehow the professor took all the glory upon himself, and the poor stork was not recognized.

"What a wonderful genius that Slangley has," said everyone, but they said nothing of poor Mr. Stork. He, however, winked first one eye and then the other, scratched his head with his claw, and said:

"I believe in being honest, and I'll soon show you, Mr. Professor, that you can't cheat us dumb creatures so." Next day there was to be a grand exhibition of "Prof. Slangley's new and approved Terrestrial-Aerodrome." The course was five miles by land and then over the lake by the air line. The five miles was made in record time, the stork sitting on the handle-bars. Then came the fly. Prof. Slangley grasped the legs of Mr. Stork, who rose gracefully. It was a great success. But in mid-lake, the stork let go. Prof. Slangley held hard, but Mr. Stork had greased his long limbs carefully, and, hold though he tried, the professor and his machine tumbled into the lake, amid howls of derision and laughter, while Mr. Stork, flapping his wings, lazily floated off to other climes. As he went he squawked back: "Guess your glory's kind of watered, ain't it?"

NAUGHTINESS.

Why am I sometimes naughty
And sometimes very good?
What makes me act so different?
I never understood.

When in the morning I wake up,
I don't know which 'twill be,
A day all full of naughtiness
Or a good day for me.

But when I go to bed at night
I know which I have been,
A Mamma's joy all day or else
A creature full of sin.

"I thank, thee, Lord, for my good heart,"
This is the prayer I make;
Or else: "Forgive my naughtiness,
Dear God, for Jesus' sake."

Reform in Chicago.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In Chicago they have a Municipal Voters' League. The league has no large organized following, but exercises a moral influence. It is said this league has become an influential factor, not through the maintenance of the machinery of a party organization, but by controlling the balance of power. This league stands for good municipal government and is a success. A special bulletin giving the officeseeker's record and contrasting it with his promises of reform is mailed to every voter in the ward and published in the papers.

Sweet Peach Pickles.

A blue ribbon recipe for sweet peach pickles, guaranteed to keep for years: To every cup of good vinegar add a cup and a half of sugar, and two sticks of cinnamon; let come to a boil, then drop your peeled peaches in the boiling syrup for a few minutes. Long Hours at Uptown Stores.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

We have noticed of late there has been so much said about the workingmen and their unions, which they are allowed to have, and in having same are not compelled to work until 9 or 10 o'clock every night, as the poor salesladies of the uptown stores are expected to do for much less money.

Why is it that something cannot be done for them? Such as inducing the merchants to close at least three (3) nights each week at 6 o'clock, so as to enable the employes to have a little time to themselves. It is nothing but a habit with the people to come of an evening, whereas if they knew they would have to come through the day, or the few nights the stores were open, they would do so just the same and allow the salespeople to have a little pleasure as well as all work. They do not seem to think that we need any time for pleasure at all; as it is, everything has to be attended to after work, 9 p. m., or on Sundays.

The Freight Blockade.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

If there are any people in St. Louis disposed to minify the effect of the present freight blockade, they should interview traveling salesmen from this city who are attempting to do business east of the river. I quote from a personal letter received this morning:

"The way that terminal association gives it to St. Louis! Last Saturday (Sept. 19) I saw a case of overcoats that had just come in at Roodhouse, Ill., that was shipped and billed from St. Louis on Aug. 23. People on the river say that boats are much quicker than freight trains, and have been all summer. Scarcely any fall goods have been shipped up here yet, and merchants are holding back orders. They don't like to order for next spring trade until they see the goods come in for fall and winter. They are kicking like sin."

It certainly is an up-hill struggle for St. Louis salesmen, in all lines, when they have such delivery as that to explain and irritated customers to keep smoothed down and in a buying humor. When New York can deliver goods in Illinois as early as St. Louis, there is something very seriously and dangerously wrong. W. C. TAYLOR.

Athletics at the World's Fair.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As St. Louis is to have a World's Fair, in which they ask all nations to come and take part and want only the best of everything, is it not strange that all athletic contests are for amateurs, but bare professionalism? Now it is a known fact, that to have the best, there should be contests open to all. However, as St. Louis has nothing in the athletic line that can compete with the best from the East, with the exception of association football playing, in which sport there is no doubt St. Louis could line up against any representative club of other countries, as in the past they have defeated almost every club that has been brought here. Would this not be a good plan for the Fair officials to allot dates for this particular game, making no distinction as to professionalism. A. T. GLENNON

"Jackies" at the World's Fair.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The below-named "jackies," who enlisted Aug 22, 1902, would like to be home during the World's Fair; also to see their loved ones who are worrying for them day by day. Mediums and Detectives.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Many spiritualists, like the uninitiated, are painfully ignorant in the philosophy of nature and look for the wonderful and miraculous in mediums and spiritualism. You should always bear in mind that the same laws which govern matter and the embodied intelligence will and do govern attenuated matter or so-called space and the disembodied intellects. We enlighten and teach the spirit world or disembodied intellects who require and desire knowledge, for there are more ignorant than enlightened intellects, just like here on earth; and in the same way they can teach us, but only when we are willing subjects. Death is no barrier to intelligence, nor does it cripple or deform its natural growth and evolution in space. A good sensitive in peace and harmony can detect a spy every time, but remember the detective is an intelligence just as well as the sensitive or medium. YOUNG [illegible]

NEW BOOKS THAT ARE WORTH READING

LIFE OF A TYPICAL AMERICAN.

It is distinctly refreshing now and then, amidst the clamor of insistent fiction that demands an instant hearing, to turn aside if but for a moment and give ear to a gentler and more modest voice coming to us from the world of letters.

Such a voice is heard in the volume of happy reminiscence entitled "My Own Story" (Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston), written by the veteran, John T. Trowbridge, now almost the sole survivor of a generation of American writers whose names are of lasting distinction. A sweet simplicity of soul and an old man's love for his lifetime work are finely revealed in this book.

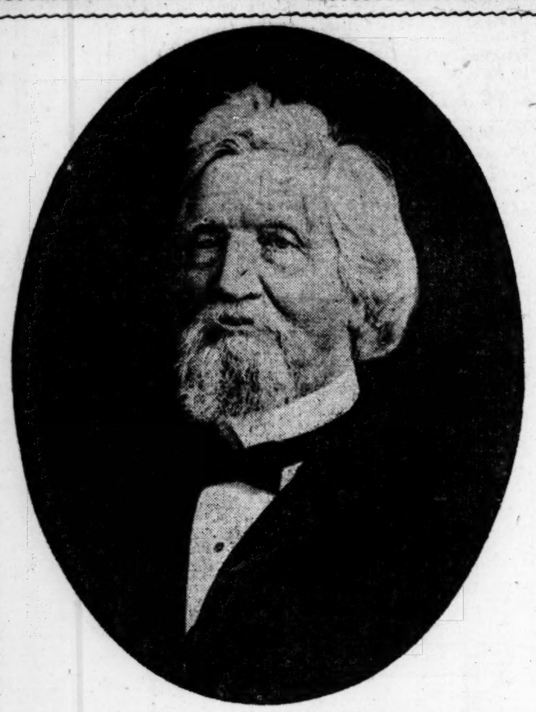

While it is true that Mr. Trowbridge has not attained the stature of greatness in literature, he is, nevertheless, a figure that must be taken into account in a consideration of the era of Longfellow, Emerson, Bryant, Whittier and Holmes. It is as a poet that he will live, and only through a few minor poems, of which "The Vagabond" is the chief, but his life has been so distinctly literary, and so closely associated with those of his more famous contemporaries, that he would seem to be peculiarly fitted for the task which he has now just performed.

We have so long contemplated Mr. Trowbridge as a Bostonian, as of the veritable Brahmin cult, indeed, that it comes as a surprise when we are reminded that his career was begun in New York, rather than in Boston, then proudly spoken of as the "Athens of America." Stranger, too, it seems to the present generation to behold him first in City Hall Park, just as might be the case with a young writer nowadays, the vital heart of Gotham's newspaperdom, the very fountain head of the flow of printer's ink, so to speak. Remembering the tremendous modernity of this spot in the New York of the present, the quaint and countrified figure of John Townsend Trowbridge thus injected on its canvas seems almost like an anachronism.

Also, finding the publishers discouragingly timid about accepting MSS from an unknown young writer, it was to a newspaper man that young Trowbridge turned for succor and stimulation—and not in vain. Maj. Mordecai M. Noah, the brilliant and forceful Israelite, who made so profound an impression as a journalist, diplomat and man of public affairs, on the New York of his day, was then editor and proprietor of the "Sunday Times," and with almost miraculous kindness, considering that the stripling Trowbridge first made an offering of verse to this busy and practical soul, Maj. Noah proceeded to set the aspirant on his literary feet. It was a helpful act of lifelong import, for from that moment, phenomenal as the fact appears, Trowbridge prospered as a story-writer and poet, a free lance in letters, at whose door the wolf of hunger and destitution steadily failed to howl an effective solo. Take heart, O dreamful toilers of the pen—what has been done once may surely be done again!

It seems somewhat ungrateful that, after having achieved a New York success, Mr. Trowbridge should have been induced to abandon the younger literary center for Boston, but the Boston of that day was a name to conjure with in letters—and, besides, its story papers paid the higher rates and took practically all that this lucky writer offered to their editors. Wherefore it came about that John Townsend Trowbridge established himself in Boston, entering in time the "sacred circle" of its literary set, figuring as a contributor to the first number of The Atlantic Monthly—the only one of all that group now living—and so coming in to his fullest literary inheritance under the most genial conditions. It was here that he did his best work, to which fact his five or six volumes of verse testify more eloquently than do his anti-slavery and other novels, winning a literary reputation of satisfactory note.

But since we of today are so prone to cry aloud that there was no such "sensational advertising" of books in the "golden age" of American literature as now prevails, it may be salutary to contemplate the manner in which one of Mr. Trowbridge's novels, the partisan Abolitionist story, "Cudjos Cave," was handled by its publishers and the booksellers. "It was issued by a young and enterprising firm," writes Mr. Trowbridge, 'that displayed considerable ingenuity and no little audacity in advertising it. Pictures of the cave were on envelopes and posters, and I remember a booksellers' window on Washington street rendered attractive by a pile of the freshly bound volumes erected in the similitude of a cave. A private letter to the author from Secretary Chase, then at the zenith of his fame as a national financier, was made to do service in ways he could hardly have anticipated any more than I did when the publishers obtained permission of him to use it. It was printed and extensively copied by the press, and the interior of every street car in Boston was placarded with a signed extract from it." Then adds Mr. Trowbridge, "The publishers' methods combined with the circumstances of the time to secure immediate popularity for the book."

"My Own Story" is good reading. Across its pages pass the figures of nearly every famous American man of letters of the generation preceding this, and it is the interesting record of a consistent, faithful and sincere literary life. No one who is concerned with the history of American literature can afford to miss the reading of Mr. Trowbridge's latest volume.

THE ENJOYMENT OF ART.

A recent book which will be of considerable use to those who will visit the Palace of Fine Arts at the World's Fair next year is a volume entitled "The Enjoyment of Art," by Carleton Noyes, an instructor in Harvard University. Mr. Noyes, in the course of a hundred pages, seeks to guide the inquiring reader into the path that leads up to the appreciation of art as expressed in paintings, sculpture and other forms of art, and he achieves a fair measure of success. The book is unique in that for the first time in its pages is discussed, in a heart-to-heart talk with the reader, the points of a picture. The person unschooled in the technicalities of art is told just how and why he should study a painting and by what means he may derive the greatest satisfaction from the contemplation of masterpieces.

The author was inspired to write this volume because of the experience of a young man of education who, fresh from college, stood bewildered in the great picture galleries of Europe asking himself: "Why are these pictures? What is the meaning of all this striving after expression? What was the aim of these men who have left their record here? Why does the human spirit seek to manifest itself in forms which we call beautiful?"

The attempt made by Mr. Noyes in his book, and successfully made, was to reduce the supposed mysteries of art discussion to the basis of practical, every-day intelligence and common sense. He says:

"A work of art is the expression of an inspiration.

"The beauty thus revealed is a beauty which the artist has apprehended in spirit and which he would make actual.

"When all is said there is no single invariable standard by which to try a work of art; its significance to the appreciator rests upon his capacity at the moment to receive it.

"The man who out of the complex disarray of his little world effects a new harmony is an artist."

No one can read this little book by Mr. Noyes without realizing that "the enjoyment of art" means something more than merely looking at painted canvas. The book is published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

WOMEN IN FEUDAL DAYS.

In days of old when knights were bold and barons held their sway, the gallant fellows who went forth to war so almost incessantly were fine figures, and it is with their picturesque fortunes that the faction which tells us of feudal times has heretofore concerned itself. But Miss Margaret Horton Potter, whose novel, "The Castle of Twilight," is published today by A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago, insists upon spinning a yarn concerning the lonely lives of the women who were left behind by the doughty fighters and "the monotony bravely faced by the chatelaines of isolated castles when their husbands and sons departed to battle." It's a good yarn, too, but don't believe for a moment that it is lacking in dramatic action. The word "monotony" is distinctly out of place in describing the days passed by those feudal women—Lord bless us, what uncomfortable, soul-shaking and goosefesh-breeding days those must have been! 'Tis a pretty story, that of the grim old Castle of Twilight on its sea-circled cliff, with its noblewomen and sweet nuns and stately Mother Prioress and ancient retainers. And, because it gives us a new viewpoint of an especially colorful age, it is exceptionally well worth reading.

"The Congressman's Wife," by John D. Barry, (Smart Set Publishing Co., New York,) is a not very convincing story of political life, its scene being laid in Washington and its characters more or less typical. Somehow, the fortunes of Congressman Briggs and his family as sojourners at the national capital fail to be as interesting as might be hoped, and, while there are occasional moments of entertainment in the story, the ultimate effect is that of weariness. For a novel with such a theme, stage and possible cast, "The Congressman's Wife," is distinctly disappointing. Mr. Barry has failed to profit by skillful use of the rich material at his command.

GAY PARIS.

Mr. Guy Wetmore Carryl is plainly one of those Americans who know their Paris almost as intimately as they know their native land, and who, in differing degrees, are loyal to both. But a little time ago he gave us "The Lieutenant-Governor," a strong and vital American novel, and now, in "Zut, and Other Parisians" (Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston), we find a collection of crisp, amusing and distinctive short stories that might well have been written by a Frenchman. The book is one to be taken up and laughed over at odd times, though occasionally one encounters a sketch, such as "Le Pochard," or "Papa Labesse," for example, that calls for a shudder, a sigh or a tear, rather than a smile. But the prevailing atmosphere is that of gay comedy, for the development of which Mr. Carryl reveals a lightsome imagination and a genuinely delicate and finished style. "Zut" itself, which is the leading story, is rich with dainty humor, and fun holds the ascendency in "A Latter Day Lucifer" and "Poire." In "Caffiard" and "The Tuition of Dodo Chapuis," the unconventional Paris spirit becomes manifest. The last story in the book, "Little Tapin," is notable for a fine bit of word-painting, wherein the shade of the Great Napoleon is made to reveal to a homesick drummer boy contemplating desertion the glories of the French army as seen in a review by Napoleon himself, thus firing the lad's soul with loyalty to the flag. It is an admirable piece of literary work.

Quite a dainty romance of the Middle Ages is "Florestane, the Troubadour," by Julia de Wolf Addison, (Dana, Estes & Co., Boston,) in which we are again made to realize the old sentimental axiom that "the course of true love never did run smooth." Thanks to a cheerful, considerate author, however, the trials and tribulations of Florestane and the beautiful Lady Blatriz came to an end at last and they find happiness as the culmination of their singularly tempestous experiences. The story is told largely in the quaint phrasecology of medieval times, it gives us fleeting glimpses of such famous folk as Dante, Ciambue, Sordello and others of that golden era, and the atmosphere of the tale is pleasantly colored and poetic.

Little Lord Fauntleroy in petticoats, with Christian Science trimmings, is the heroine of Clara Louise Burnham's new novel, "Jewel," published this week by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston. The story is decidedly entertaining, with a skillful combination of humor and pathos, and the reader finds that little Jewel, the juvenile Christian Scientist, with her doll, Anna Belle, her fortune of $3 and her persistent love for her stockbroker grandfather, claims rather a snug place in one's heart before the tale of her adventures is finished. After all, however, the Fauntleroy atmosphere is a bit too marked, and one feels, as well, that the success of Mrs. Burnham's Christian Science romance of last year, "The Right Princess," was largely influential in establishing a creed for the heroine of the present story.

"The Man in the Camlet Cloak" (The Saalfield Publishing Co.), of which Mr. Carlen Bateson is the author, is another fictional version of the Aaron Burr conspiracy and is full of intrigue and mystery. It is a cleverly constructed romance, and the reader is neatly fooled as to the identity of the individual whose remarkable mantle suggested so much of conspiracy, plots and counterplots whenever and wherever it came into evidence. One may find considerable entertainment in the story—but aren't we getting a bit too much Burr in our fiction nowadays?

Just at this time, when Impresario Conried is threatening to give a Metropolitan Opera company production of "Parsifal" in New York and Frau Cosima Wagner makes a counter-threat of bringing her Bayreuth company to this country for a rival engagement, the little volume, "Wagner's Parsifal, as Retold by Oliver Huckel" (Thomas Y. Crowell & Co., New York), should receive an unusual degree of attention. The book will be found to merit and repay an appreciative reading, since its author has set the mystical music-drama into blank verse of considerable distinction and made the utmost of its story from the standpoint of literary effectiveness. The work is very much more than a translation of the "Parsifal" libretto; it is a free paraphrase of genuine worthiness and poetic charm. Mr. Huckel, an Oxford and Berlin scholar, dedicates his work to his wife, "In loving memory of Bayreuth days."

COMSTOCK BUSY IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Anthony Comstock was busy today in Chicago. He arrived from New York, led a raid on a cigar-store, confiscated a half ton of books and pictures, caused the arrest of Charles S. Wright and departed for another western city, all in five hours.

Postoffice Inspectors Stuart and McAfee, with a federal marshal, accompanied Mr. Comstock and spent some time piling the confiscated property upon mail wagons.

Wright, owner of the store, is alleged to have confessed that he was the distributor of thousands of pamphlets objectionable to the Society for the Suppression of Vice, of which Mr. Comstock is secretary.

Wright waived examination and was held to the grandjury under $4000 bonds for sending improper advertisements through the mails and for shipping books and pictures by express.

Florissant Decides to Have Truck Gardens in Streets and Town Counselor Resigns.

Florissant is without a town counselor, because the only attorney in the town has resigned from the office rather than submit to the indignity of having his opinion against the legality of leasing the streets for truck farm purposes overruled by the board of aldermen.

Judge James W. Settle was town counselor. When the board of aldermen referred to him the question whether townsmen should be granted their petition to use some of the streets as gardens in which to raise vegetables, he promptly decided that such a course would be illegal and unesthetic. The board decided that the money that would be paid for the lease of the streets would be a more tangible asset than would a reputation for estheticism, and that as far as the legality of the question was concerned it really did not matter.

So it legalized the street truck farm and the town counselor resigned.

THINKS SON IS IN ST. LOUIS.

Howard Winner Missing From His Pennsylvania Home Three Months.

J. F. Winner of West Philadelphia, Pa., thinks his 18-year-old son, whose sudden disappearance he cannot account for, is in St. Louis. Young Winner, whose name is Howard, is, according to his parent, a youth of good habits. He is 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs about 135 pounds. He has dark hair and is slightly deaf. When he left home he wore a dark suit and a black derby hat. He disappeared July 8, and on July 13 his father received a letter from him in St. Louis. The letter did not give his address nor his reason for leaving home.

POST-DISPATCH DAILY RECORD OF FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

ENGLAND DEPENDS ON US FOR FRUIT

Worst Summer on Record Almost Entirely Destroyed Crop Throughout Great Britain.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—America is now reaping great benefit from the storms which made the past summer one of the worst on record in Great Britain and the Continent.

Thanks to the ruined home crops, California fruit is being imported in larger quantities than ever before. The sales last week in London marked a record with 25,000 boxes of American fruit, representing about 675,000 pounds weight. The fruit was sold at a two days' auction in Covent Garden market, the prices averaging 30 per cent above what has heretofore been obtained here.

There is practically no English fruit obtainable, while France, which usually exports large quantities of pears to England, is sending none.

The American section of Covent Garden market is now almost the sole source of supply and there are no signs of the demand decreasing.

American apples which hitherto could not be profitably shipped till later in the year, now have a brisk trade. Forty-two thousand barrels of Canadian apples are expected in London at the end of this week, and record prices are assured.

A member of the most prominent English firm dealing in foreign fruit said to the Associated Press correspondent:

"There has never been anything like it. Europe's ill wind certainly brought good to America. We are spending five and six hours a day in the auction box disposing of double as much California fruit as we ever did before at prices ranging from 25 to 30 per cent higher. We have no difficulty in securing all we want from America, but we can scarcely order quickly enough.

"Heretofore, California fruit has been more an adjunct to England's supply than a serious factor in the market. Now, owing to the failure of French fruit and the complete loss of the home crop, the American branch of the market is watched more eagerly than any other.

"How disastrous the present season has been to English growers may be judged from a letter in which a fruit farmer in one of the best counties of England says that on 11 acres, all devoted to green gages, on only three ripened. There is no wonder that shipments of American fruit are well received."

The following are the current quotations per box: California pears, $1.94 to $2.30; California plums, $2.43@2.91; Bartlett pears, $1.82 to $2.30; peaches, $2.43 to $2.67.

ENROLLMENT IS INCREASED.

All Departments of Washington University, Except Dental, Open.

The enrollment in the various departments of Washington University on the opening day of the session lead Chancellor Chapin to predict that the year's attendance will be in excess of that of last year, when 2219 students were enrolled in all departments. The force of instructors has been increased to 200, an increase of four over last year.

The college and the school of engineering and architecture at Beaumont and Locust streets, the medical college at 1806 Locust street, the law school at 1417 Locust street, Smith Academy at Nineteenth street and Washington avenue, the manual training school at Eighteenth street and Washington avenue, Mary Istitute at Lake and McPherson avenues, and the school of fine arts at Nineteenth and Locust streets, are now open. The dental college will begin its session Oct. 1.

CURTIS JETT TO HANG DEC. 18.

Counsel Will Carry the Case to the Court of Appeals.

CYNTHIANA, Ky., Sept. 25.—Curtis Jett was brought into court today when Judge Osborne decreed that he be hanged "between sunrise and sunset, Dec. 18, for killing James Cockrill at Jackson, Ky., July 21, 1902."

When Judge Osborne said he would send the prisoner to another jail, Jett pleaded earnestly not to be returned to Lexington, Ky. Judge Blanton filed papers giving his grounds for a new trial preparatory to carrying the case to the court of appeals at Frankfort.

HUNGRY EXPLORER RETURNS.

Harry Gray Sought to "Do" the World but Two Cities Did for Him.

"Won't you open that door and let me in? I'll promise never to run away again."

Mrs. Bertha Williams of 1707 Franklin avenue recognizing the voice of her small brother hastened from bed to meet his request at 5 o'clock Friday morning.

Harry Gray, aged 14, ran away last Monday in search of adventure. He found it at Kansas City and Chicago and also found an enormous appetite.

Mrs. Williams attriutes the boy's episode to dime novel reading. Harry says he met a boy whose name he does not know, who was longing for travel and that together they beat their way to Kansas City on freight cars.

They did not intend to go to Chicago and thought they were on their way home when they learned that they were rolling into the Windy City. They caught a fast freight and reached St. Louis early Friday morning.

ANOTHER DRIVE AGAINST STEEL

After Early Strength, There Were New Low Records Made in Common and Preferred.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—There was no lack of interest in the opening this morning. The close yesterday was so pyrotechnical that the smoke of the fireworks had not blown away this morning. Around the room the sentiment was generally bearish in the extreme, it being figured that there would be a rush of selling orders at the opening. London came lower and heavy, with about 10,000 shares to buy this morning. Consols abroad were again below previous prices this morning.

At the start, in spite of the expectations, prices were generally higher, though very irregular. Both Steel common and preferred started the session with new low records, the common touching 16⅛ and the preferred 62¾. Other prices were on an average of about ¼ advance over yesterday on the leaders.

It took but a few moments to show that many of the professionels thought this a good time to cover, and they dipped into the market with a rush and prices went up in jumps. Steel preferred quickly hit 64 and the common went to 17¼, some big lots selling at 17. New York Central also had a good advance, gaining 1½ over last night in the first half hour.

The bugbear of trouble ahead for firms and institutions is denied most emphatically by those who should know, but at the same time the outlook is rather squally for some of those who have been so persistent for months that the low level had been reached. Though the industrial companies say that orders are not falling off, it is known that several of them are making preparations to curtail their output and place themselves in a position where there will be less chance of over-production.

At the end of the first half hour the market showed Copper up to 41⅛, Baltimore & Ohio to 62⅝, Missouri Pacific to 88½ and New York Central to 116¾. Trading was very active up to that time.

The market slackened some during the second half of the initial hour and short covering was less apparent. Prices did not suffer much during that time, however. The street was looking for something to happen, and because it did not happen there was some grumbling, many of the operators reasoning that even the announcement of a big failure would be better than the present uncertainty. Rumors of a decidedly radical nature were freely handed around and caused considerable criticism of the circulators.

Some of the buying during the morning looked as though Stnadard Oil interests were endeavoring to suport Copper and St. Paul and incidentally help the general list.

During the noon hour stop orders on the Steel issues were uncovered and there was some lively selling and the drop was about as sudden as that of yesterday.

The common made another new low record of 16⅛, while the preferred went to 60½, after selling as high as 64 during the morning. There was much excitement and at the end of the noon hour the street was feverishly waiting for new developments.

The sales to noon were 479,500 shares, with money at 2½.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The opening dealings in stocks disclosed continued weakness at some points, but support was accorded in others. The result was a feverish and irregular tone. United States Steel Securities were a conspicuous example, all three opening at new low records. The sales of 1500 shares of the preferred carried it ¼ under yesterday's close and the low record price. There were 4000 shares of the common sold at 16⅝ and 16¼, compared with 17 last night, and the second mortgage bonds sold at 7½, a decline of ½.

Tennessee Coal fell 1¼ and there were running sales of 1200 shares of Atchison at 62 and 61¾, compared with 62⅝ last night. The changes otherwise were fractional and pretty evenly mixed between gains and losses.

A sale of 1000 shares of United States Steel at 16½, the lowest, marked the end of the opening declines. Supporting orders made their appearance in all quarters, and prices were bid up rapidly on large transactions. Prominent stocks rose well above yesterday's close, the improvement reaching 1@1½ in St. Paul, Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific, Texas & Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Reading, Louisville, New York Central and Amalgamated. United States Steel rallied to 17¼ and the preferred to 64⅛.

The support did not follow the advance far and prices reacted, but steadied again with a quieter market. A few losses of note occurred before the rally became effective, including 1⅜ in General Electric, 2 in Hocking Valley and Wheeling & Lake Erie first preferred and 3 in Wisconsin Central preferred.

When it was seen that support was renewed on the reaction, the bears covered freely and lifted prices considerably higher, generally, than on the first rally. Reading, B. & O., N. Y. C., Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific and Amalgamated Copper were the largest gainers. Lake Erie & Western fell 2, International Pump 4¼, Iowa Central preferred 2¾. Pullman 3½ and Linseed preferred and Snuff preferred 6. The market was slightly lower, but dull and steady at noon.

Bonds were irregular at noon.

A bear drive against United States Steel preferred to uncover stop-loss orders broke the price to 60¼, and precipitated heavy liquidation in the standard stocks and specialties. United States Steel touched 16 and the second mortgage 5 per cent bonds 71. Many of the active stocks fell below the opening low prices, particularly Missouri Pacific, Reading, Rock Island and St. Paul. Railroad stocks generally did not get much away from yesterday's final prices. Support appeared against United States Steel preferred, and its recovery to 62 carried the general list up a point or more in many instances. Trading became very quiet on the rally.

MRS. CUNNINGHAM IS ILL.

Plaintiff in "Mashing" Case Cannot Appear in Court.

The case against Gerard Castleman, accused by Mrs. W. L. Cunningham of attempted "mashing" on an Olive street car and in the corridor of the postoffice a month ago, will not come up in the Dayton street police court, to which it was taken under a change of venue, Saturday morning, because of the illness of the prosecuting witness.

Thomas W. Fauntleroy, attorney for Mrs. Cunningham, appeared at the court Friday morning and explained to Assistant City Attorney Noonan that Mrs. Cunningham was at St. Anthony's Hospital, very ill with appendicitis, and that her physicians feared an operation would have to be performed.

Mr. Noonan told him the case would be continued when called Saturday if he would produce a physician's certificate as to Mrs. Cunningham's illness.

Bridge Jumper's Disaster.

Joseph Feeny, a Terminal Association flagman, thought he had discovered a permanent short cut from the yards to his home at 1331 Spruce street. His scheme was to climb a telephone pole and jump from it to the Eighteenth street bridge. Feeny at length made the mistake of carrying too much weight, and tried to make the jump with overcoat and dinner bucket on his arm. He failed in the attempt and fell 30 feet to the ground. He landed on his feet, but fell, cutting his chin and dislocating his ankle. He was taken to his home.

Children Saved From Injury.

Sergt. George Smith of the Seventh police district counts his sprained ankle a small price to pay for saving from injury a group of little children who were threatened by a runaway horse. The animal, frightened by a street car, ran wildly on Gravois avenue from Grand to Arkansas. The children were in its path near Grand avenue and the sergeant tried to stop it. He succeeded in turning it away from the children, although in doing so he was thrown and his ankle badly sprained. The horse ran against a telephone pole on Arkansas avenue and killed itself.

LESS ACTIVITY ON LOCAL STOCKS

Trading Was Lighter, With Transit Somewhat Stronger and to $16.87 1-2 This Morning.

MISSOURI TRUST WAS LOWER

Mechanics' National Sold Today, the First Sale of Bank Stocks for Several Days.

There was less activity on the local stock exchange this morning than for the past few days. The life in the traction issues which has been noticeable for this week, was not as much in evidence this morning, though Transit sold at a fraction above the high price of yesterday. Neither United Railways preferred or railway bonds sold, the bids and offers on the former being wide apart and the latter unchanged.

Missouri Trust was a decidedly weak spot, selling early in the session at $125.25, and later declining to $125 and being liberally offered at that figure. American Central Trust showed a 10-share sale at yesterday's price, $153 cash. Mercantile was offered to $345.

The sale of 10 Mechanics' National at $252.50, ex-dividend, was the first sale of bank stocks in board lots recorded for several days.

The remainder of the market was quiet and bids and offers were limited, there being an exception, however, in Granite-Bimetallic, which was liberally offered at 50 cents after a sale at that price.

Real Estate Men Plan Visit.

At the suggestion of a number of the members of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange the board of directors have decided, if a sufficient number of the members will participate, to accept the invitation of the Chicago Real Estate Board, extended last June, to visit Chicago.

The plan, President W. A. Geraldin states, is to leave here on the noon train Friday, Oct. 23, spending Friday night in Chicago and returning either Saturday or Sunday night.

Assistant Secretary Sidney Schiele has notified all the members to signify their intentions at once in order that the details of the excursion may be immediately arranged.

PLEADING FOR TEXAS CATTLE.

Banker and State Commission Wants Them Admitted to the World's Fair Exhibits.

Louis J. Wortham of Austin, Tex., banker and general manager of the Texas World's Fair commission, arrived in St. Louis Thursday to try to lift the embargo against the admission of Texas cattle to the World's Fair. Under the rule of the Agricultural Department, Texas cattle are excluded from the north owing to the fear of contagion from Texas fever. This line extends across the country beginning at a point on the Atlantic coast, approximately on the boundary line between North and South Carolina, west to the center of Texas, northwest of Fort Worth and turns southwest to the Mexican line. Below it is all of Texas except the panhandle, as well as Oklahoma and Indian Territory.

Mr. Wortham called on F. D. Coburn, at the head of the live stock department, to endeavor to get an abatement of this rule for World's Fair exhibits. Mr. Coburn has adopted the Agricultural Department's position in the matter on the ground that if the embargo was raised fear of disease would keep breeders of fine cattle in what constitutes the great bulk of the country from sending their stock to the World's Fair.

The matter is under discussion, and Mr. Coburn has not yet announced his decision.

DREAMS OF A JOCKEY'S WEALTH

Widow Fears Her Little Son Has Run Away to Be a Rider.

Bonnie Attenbury, a 12-year-old boy, has run away from home, and his mother fears he has gone to become a jockey. The boy has been living with his mother, who is a widow, at 1043 Morrison avenue, and has been attending Holy Angel's school. Thursday morning he arose and, without awaiting for his breakfast, left the house and has not been seen since.

Once before Bonnie left home, and his brother, Mansfield, found him at the house of a horse trader a few blocks distant.

The boy is small and very fond of horses, and has had dreams of a fortune to be made as a jockey. His mother fears that he has gone to follow in the footsteps of Tod Sloan, and has begged the police to find him.

MATTRESS MAKERS ON STRIKE.

Union Workers Walk Out Because Refused Increased Wages.

The members of the Matress Makers' Union are out on strike because of the bosses' refusal to sign a request for 2½ cents more pay on each mattress and because of their alleged refusal to recognize the union.

The strikers say that the increased wages would amount to about 30 to 40 cents a day for each worker and they think they are entitled to that.

GOOD REACTION IN ALL GRAINS

SPECULATION PROFESSIONAL

Receipts Smaller, Weather Favorable, but the Cables Were Lower for All Grains.

WHEAT—The demoralization that existed in the local grain situation yesterday and which resulted in a sharp break in values, was followed this morning by a complete reversal in form. All the markets opening higher and the tendency being upward during the first hour. This strength was due to the fact that the crowd had oversold the day before and were inclined to buy, especially as the receipts were light, Chicago a little better and cables not as low as expected. The opening here was ½c higher at 80⅝c for December and ½@⅝c better for May at 82⅞c. The former sold up to 80⅞c, and reacted in selling to 80½c, while May sold to 83c, off to 82½c. Liverpool cables were ⅜d lower and the receipts here only 86,156 bu, against 98,458 bu a year ago. Weather conditions were favorable.

The wheat market was quiet after the first hour of trading, but maintained nearly all of the strength witnessed earlier, the December option selling up to as high as 81, but only to ease off to 80½ later on a selling pressure. May at the same time sold at 83⅜c, off to 82⅞c. The closing Liverpool cables closed as they opened, that is, ⅜d lower for the day. Primary receipts were reported at 950,778 bu, and the shipments at 284,788 bu, and the export clearances were 278,000 bu. This market showed its greatest strength the last half hour, when there was a rush to buy and prices went up to 80⅞c, back to 80¼c and reacted quickly to 81⅛c and closed at top of the day at 80¼c asked. May after selling down to 82½c sold up to 83, and closed at 83¼c.

CASH MARKET—Received, 300 sacks, 22 cars local, 12 cars through. Market firm for soft and slow for hard; demand light. By sample delivered—No. 2 red at 84@85½c; No. 3 red, 83@84c; No. 4, 78@82c; No. 2 hard, 77@79c; No. 3 hard, 70@76c.

CORN—A fair trade and a good strong market was the feature this morning, though there was nothing in the general run of gossip to influence the market to that course. In the first place, the weather was favorable and cables ⅛d lower, but the receipts were smaller at 31,350 bu, compared with 15,300 bu a year ago. December opened ¼c higher at 42⅞c and sold down to 42⅝c and back to 43c, while May, after opening at 43⅞c, reacted to 43½c the first hour of trading.

Corn, like wheat, continued to show undesirable strength until past the noon hour, but the trading was light, December selling at 42¾c to 43c down to 42⅝c, while May ranged from 43⅞c, off to 43½c. Closing Liverpool cables were unchanged at ½d decline. Primary receipts were 696,009 and shipments 635,276 bu. The day's clearances were reported at 47,000 bu. There was a strong and higher finish to corn, which rallied late, December selling at 42½c, off to 42⅛c, back to 42⅞c, closing at that bid. May selling down to 43c, up to 43½c, closing at bottom bid.

Cash market—Received 305 sacks, 92 cars local and 3 cars through. Market weak, lower and dull. By sample delivered—No. 2 at 45@47c; No. 3, 44c; No. 2 yellow, 48c; No. 3 yellow, 47c; No. 2 white, 47½c No. 3 white, 46@47c.

OATS—There was nothing of consequence doing in oats, but the market, in sympathy with other grains, ruled stronger at 37c to 37½c for May. Receipts were 48,600 bu, against 52,770 a year ago.

There was little business done and few changes after the opening hour, December ranging between 36½c and 36⅝c, and May, which was strong, selling at 37⅛c. The primary receipts were 462,748 bu and shipments 410,238. Clearances 12,000 bu. The close of this market was quiet, but firm. December after selling at 36c to 36⅛c, closed at 36⅛c bid, while May sold at 37⅛c, down to 36¼c, up to 37c later and closed at 37c bid.

LIVESTOCK MARKET.

National Stockyards.

CATTLE—Receipts, 3500; 2000 were southern. There was only a fair supply in the native division and trade was steady on beef steers, while butcher stuff was slow. There was a fair run in the southern division but the movement was slow and there were not many sales reported up to noon. The early sales were principally of common stuff on which trade was about steady.

The first line of quotations in each class is calculated to represent the full range from common to extra. Dealers, however, often classify superlative bunches (all tops) for buyers, which sometimes sell considerably above the highest quotations. The second line of quotations signifies the bulk of sales and generally represents the various classes as they are sold on the commission market, more or less mixed.

GRAIN MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—With a fairly strong tone in cables and New York quotations nearly a point higher on foreign demand, wheat opened firm with prices ⅛c to ⅝c higher, with December at 76⅝c to 77c and May at 78⅝c to 79c. Weather prospects were favorable for threshing and movement and in spite of noticeable buying by local commission houses and bulls, the prices held at about the ⅝-cent mark on both months. Receipts at Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago were 635 cars.

Corn opened a shade higher over yesterday, both December and May starting at 45⅞c to 46c. At the end of the early hour they had reached 46¼c, the principal influence being the "reaction" theory. There was good buying by locals. Receipts, 485 cars.

Oats opened steady and about unchanged. December began at 37⅛c to 37¼c and May at 38c to 38⅛c. Early trading was featureless and there was no change of note in prices. Receipts, 129 cars.

The provision list started slow and weak, with prices off about 10c. There was some selling by local longs. May pork opened at $12.42½ to $12.50. October lard was at $7.52½ to $7.55, ribs at $9.20; January lard, $6.85 to $6.90, and ribs, $6.52½ to $6.55.

owed to laborers of the company and $1,500,000 is due to contractors for construction work.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 25.—It is announced in government circles that a British company contemplates taking over the Sault Ste. Marie industries.

The Post-Dispatch can state on excellent authority that the company is Vickers Sons & Maxim, Ltd. of Sheffield, chief purveyor of armaments to the British government.

Representatives of this firm saw Sir Wilfrid Laurier on Tuesday. Yesterday they interviewed Premier Ross and at once departed for New York to interview bondholders there. The men are A. R. Harvey of Liverpool, Capt. Tullock and Arthur Wilson of London.

Mr Harvey is an eminent financier [illegible] the other men are experts in metal[illegible] The object of their visit to the premi[illegible] Canada and Ontario was to asce[illegible] whether pressure could be brought to [illegible] on the bondholders to delay matters [illegible] they could return to England and formul[illegible] a definite offer on behalf of the Vicke[illegible] Maxim concern. Their stay in New Yo[illegible] is to same end.

The Globe, the official organ of the gov[illegible]ernment, made this announcement editori[illegible]ally this morning:

"It can be stated on good authority that British capital is ready for investment in the great enterprises at Sault Ste. Marie if favorable terms can be arranged. This would be regarded as a most happy issue out of the difficulties that for the past few months have beset these works."

SPEYER & CO. WILL TAKE POSSESSION.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 25.—The Central Trust Co., trustee for Speyer & Co., have dispatched Lawyer Bicknell of Toronto to the Soo to take possession of the works of the Consolidated Lake Superior Co. Steps will be taken to take the title and sell the property. A representative of the Central Trust Co. said htat all the syndicate wanted was its money and the taking possession of the industries would not interfere with the efforts of the company to consummate the reorganization plans.

TROOPS PLAY AT WAR IN KENTUCKY

MANEUVERS BEGIN OCTOBER 2

CAMP YOUNG, WEST POINT, Ky., Sept. 25.—With the commanding general on the ground and all preliminaries disposed of, the regular troops from the department of the lakes began arriving today, while others were "leaving station" in different parts of the country for the second series of instructive war maneuvers.

The maneuvers will be the second of their kind undertaken in time of peace since the civil war, the first having been held at Fort Riley, Kan., last year. About 14,000 troops, including militia from Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky and Wisconsin will participate. The regular troops taking part represent all arms of the service except the heavy artillery. The militia represented solely by infantry and artillery.

Major-General John C. Bates, commanding the Department of the Lakes, is here with his staff. Gen. Bates has issued a preliminary order for the guidance of the officers, officers and troops during the maneuvers. The regular troops, consisting of detachments from all posts of the Department of the Lakes and comprising approximately a short brigade of infantry and a regiment and two detached squadrons of cavalry, all will be in camp by tomorrow night.

The detachments of the signal, hospital and engineers have been at work for some time. The maneuvers proper will not begin until Oct. 2, by which time all the national guardsmen will have arrived. All conditions of actual warfare and the strategical problems relating to the repulse of an invading army will be worked out to the last detail, the main movements extending over a period of nearly two weeks. The automobile as a factor in warfare already has been given a trial by the signal corps men. Their lumbering vehicle struck its colors, however, last night, to one of the Kentucky "knobs" surrounding the camp and was shoved back to a steamboat, to be sent to Louisville for repairs.

FAT VILLAIN MEETS AN UNTIMELY END IN THIS THRILLING MELODRAMA

After the Abused Hero Keeps Him From Wrecking the Death Instrument the "Human Slaves" Ring Down His Curtain.

A short, fat, smooth-shaven man allowed three living skeletons to strap him to the disk of a large lathe and sprawled complacently on its surface while a few slow revolutions brought a savage looking gimlet ticklishly near the buckle of his belt.

The short, fat, smooth-shaven man was the villain.

After the hero had stopped the machinery and reminded the human slaves that there was a grandjury not far away, the curtain went down on the third act and the villain led the parade before the footlights.

The hissing was merely perfunctory.

The audience had not paid its money to see a roly-poly villain. The villain pictured on the billboards was of the sort dear to the patron of melodrama—tall, sallow, with retrousse mustache, silk hat, diamond stud and Prince Albert. From this ideal the descent to rotundity, twinkling eyes, soft hat and occasional shirtsleeve attire was jarring.

The audience felt that the fat man would have been better cast with an addition of side whiskers, in the role of the jolly old doctor of the trust magnate who owned the mills in the first act. It was not until he forged a will in sight of everyone and uttered several ominous "ha's" that the house settled down to the fact that he was a villain.

There were cheers for the hero who stopped the lathe, but the audience was not sure that he had saved the villain's life. The villain's stomach looked massive enough to stop anything that came its way and a girl in the dress circle advanced the opinion that if the hero hadn't received his cue at the proper time the stage carpenter would have had to get out scissors and pasteboard and build a new lathe.

After the human slaves had obtained their increase in wages and gone home the forged document underwent an expert examination, with the inevitable result, and the fat villain shot himself and tumbled on the stage with a thud that rattled the furniture.

For so heavy a villain the lightness of this villain's footwork is remarkable. It is one of his catlike tread specialties that precipitates all the trouble.

That a villain may love a heroine is a stage axiom, and this villain lives up to the privilege, but says nothing about it until he is ready to forge the will to make him the owner of the rolling mills. If he can get the mills by marrying the owner's daughter, who is his cousin, it would save him trouble, and he informs his uncle during business hours of his affection for the heroine, who is present. The mill magnate rejects the idea that cousins should be allowed to marry, and two minutes later signs the bogus will, which has been in the vest pocket immediately over the nephew's breaking heart.

Hero Makes Love to the Proprietor's Daughter.

The hero, an engineer, arrives and unfolds his affection to the heroine in the company's office. The villain gumshoes in and hears all. He informs his uncle, who becomes an irate parent, and, after tearing up his real will, dies of apoplexy.

The orchestra does not play the wedding march before the second act, but there has been a marriage just the same. Apparently there is no place except the rolling mill in the "great city" mentioned in the program where a healthy young hero can work, and cold weather finds hero and heroine keeping house without coal or groceries. The cousin-villain is prevented by their neighbors from evicting them, the human slaves. It is a hard winter for the slaves, who are not getting the union scale, and the family next door goes without beer because the only remaining bucket has to be used for carrying coal.

The orchestra plays "Prince of Pilsen" before the third act, and one expects to see a party of Heidelberg students and to hear inquiries about "Seen-see-nah-tah." Instead, there is a fully equipped rolling mill, where the human slaves are plotting against the fat villain, who has promised them more wages, but has forgotten to speak to the cashier about it.

Right here is an assistant villain who fulfills the requirements of melodrama. He wears a red handkerchief about his neck and has a fondness for spaghetti. He plots with the chief villain against the human slaves, but recalls another engagement when the slaves, in the roles of locked-out strikers, commence to batter the door in.

The Slaves "Get Back" at the Fat Villain.

The fat villain bethinks himself of his revolver, but it takes him so long to reach around himself that the slaves seize his wrists. The next minute his avoirdupois is projected upon the flat dis, giving him the appearance of the man in the moon, and the thrilling loop-the-lathe specialty is commenced. After the wheel has gone around so many times that the villain's blood has all run to his head, and when the big gimlet is about to test its temper on his stomach, the hero rushes in and saves the lady.

In the last act the assitant villain and one of the slaves get themselves locked up in the vault where the forged will is kept. The slave gets the document, which is discredited in a way that would have done Pudd'n Head Wilson credit.

The will and the signature look genuine enough, but the watermark of the paper on which it is written shows a later date, and the heroine gets her mill back.

The villain "gets his" in the form of a bullet, and the audience departs mourning the untimely end of one who might have lived to a jolly age if he had stuck to the part for which nature designes him—that of Santa Claus at a Christmas tree.

MOVING PLATFORM TO PREVENT CRUSH

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—It has been decided by the extension committee of the rapid transit commission to recommend the immediate adoption of a plan to build moving platforms to be operated from the Brooklyn end of the new Williamsburg bridge to the Battery in Manhattan, by way of the rapid transit tunnel, now being dug.

The outlay will be about $8,000,000.

As the committeemen form a majority of the commission, their vote may be regarded as final for that body, and the only element of uncertainty in the scheme is action by the board of aldermen.

The moving platform idea has long been under discussion in connection with plans for easing the crush of travel between New York and Brooklyn, but never before has it reached definite shape. The moving platforms could be easily operated across the bridge, which is now nearing completion, but their installation in the subway at the Manhattan end of the bridge would be an innovation.

MORE BOYS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

A gain of 906 pupils over last year is shown by the new census of the schools. The present enrollment is 70,639 as against 69,733 at this time last year.

The High School shows a gain of 458, Summer school a gain of 13, and the grammar schools a gain of 425.

Superintendent Soidan says that records show that more boys are at school now than formerly, hundreds of those who formerly worked during the school months now being enrolled as pupils. He says that one merchant told him that an advertisement for boys which previously would have brought 80 applications, brought only 15 replies.

KANSAS CITY POLLUTES WATER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—The attorneys for the Chicago drainage canal commission are now attempting to show that if there is any pollution of the St. Louis water supply it comes from Kansas City by way of the Missouri river and not from the drainage canal.

Chemists testify that by the time Chicago river water reaches the Mississippi all traces of pollution are gone.

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 25.—A bride of a few minutes fell down the stone steps of Edenton Street Methodist Church today and was so badly cut and bruised about the face that surgeons had to take several stitches to close the wounds.

Edgar H. Vaughan and Miss Mary Lee Spillman had just been married, and, as the large party was passing out of the church, the bride's shoe heel was caught on the top stone, causing the accident. The wedding gown was ruined.
